7-Ton Russian Sputnik Biggest Ever Launched

Not Reported If Life Aboard

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW—The Soviet Union today put into an orbit a 7.13-ton satellite—the heaviest ever launched—as part of a Soviet plan for perfecting space ships of increased weight, Tass News Agency announced.

Tass said the new Sputnik was hurled into the skies "by means of an improved multi-stage rocket."

The weight of the new Sputnik was given as 6,483 kilograms (approximately 14,262.6 pounds). No mention was made of any animal, plant or other life sent aloft.

(German scientists at Bochum, Germany, said they determined the Sputnik was on an orbit that carried it 203.1 miles from the earth at its highest point and 138.5 miles at its lowest. This was close to the orbit desired, Tass said.

Two "ham" radio operators in Italy said they heard what sounded like "moans" from space but scientists said the noises could have been "anything."

The Tass statement said the radio controlling system installed in the fourth space-ship Sputnik experiment functioned normally and that it was determined the Sputnik was on an orbit that carried it 203.1 miles from the earth at its highest point and 138.5 miles at its lowest. This was close to the orbit desired, Tass said.

They were brought back alive after 24 hours, Tass reported then.

Last Dec. 1 another Soviet satellite, a five-ton affair carrying two dogs, was launched. The dogs, Pchelka (Little Bee) and Mushka (Little Fly), perished when the space ship shot off course in the recovery attempt and burned up in outer space.

The previous Soviet experiments were described as pre-testing space vehicles for manned flight.

The most recent U.S. test for manned flight was the launching Jan. 31 of the 2,400-pound space capsule that carried Ham, a chimpanzee, 155 miles into space for a 420-mile flight at 5,000 miles an hour.

Ham was retrieved safely and his physical condition Strelka (Little Arrow) aboard.

19 Belgians Die In Slag Slide

MOULIN-SOUS-FLERON (Reuters) — Rescue workers late today abandoned hope of digging up further survivors from an avalanche of slag from a coal-using power plant that claimed at least 19 lives.

The mayor of this tiny Belgium hamlet where the tragedy struck Friday night said hope had been given up.

"It is inconceivable that a human being could survive this deluge," he said. "The rubble must be cleared away before it will be possible to draw up a complete toll of the dead."

King Baudouin watched rescue operations during the day. The bodies of a woman, her 12-year-old daughter and a seven-month-old baby have been recovered so far.

Police said 16 persons were still missing—12 occupants of houses, three passengers in a truck and a motorcyclist. They apparently were caught by the 300-foot slag heap as it charged down a hill slope to engulf streets and houses to a depth of 10 feet.

One eyewitness said, "It swept down that hillside as silent as death. If you had kept your eyes shut, you would not have known anything was happening."

Rebel Ship Returned To Owners

Brazil 'Welched' Galvao Charges

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—The Brazilian government turned the liner Santa Maria back to Portugal today. Capt. Henrique Galvao's sea-going revolutionaries, now beached, protested that Brazil had welched on an agreement with the swash-buckling skipper.

A rebel spokesman told reporters:

"We are shocked and taken by surprise at the attitude of the Brazilian government, since it signed a document with us guaranteeing that the Santa Maria would stay under the Brazilian flag."

The spokesman was incensed that the ship is going back to "the dictator Salazar"—Portuguese Premier Antonio Salazar. Portugal's government however, is but an intermediary. It is turning the vessel back to the owners, the Colonial Navigation Company. Galvao and 21 rebels were quartered in the police barracks.

UNSURE OF PLANS

The rebels were unsure of their future plans, although they have been promised political asylum in Brazil.

Galvao, shortly after setting foot on Brazilian soil, told a radio-TV audience that seizure of the 610-foot-long Santa Maria with 600 captive passengers and 368 crew was only the beginning of his campaign to oust the Salazar regime.

The ship's owners, meanwhile, sought to bring Galvao into court. They directed the liner's regular captain, Maria Simoes Maia, to file a complaint in a Brazilian court charging Galvao with homicide, robbery, depriving passengers of their liberty and damage to the $16,600,000 ship.

The third officer of the Santa Maria was slain when the rebels seized the vessel in the Caribbean Jan. 22.

Meanwhile, Portuguese sources in Recife said today that Galvao wants to take his case to the World Court.

WIRE BRIEFS

Soviet Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia today accepted a six-week delay in resumption of nuclear test ban negotiations. President Kennedy had called for the postponement to permit his administration to study the U.S. position on prohibiting the testing of atomic weapons.

26 Lost on Airliner

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)—An Indonesian DC-3 airliner, missing with 26 persons aboard on a flight from Java to Borneo, is believed to have crashed at sea, it was reported today.

New Rocket Entry

BELGRADE (UPI)—Yugoslavia announced today it plans to send a rocket to the earth's upper atmosphere this year.

ALL LOST IN MEDITERRANEAN Ship Sinks in Gale

PARIS (Reuters)—One ship was reported lost with all hands and a second in distress today as gales and torrential rain swept Western Europe causing avalanches, flooding and extensive damage.

A French naval vessel and aircraft searching for the 399-ton Maltese steamship de Villena Friday found two capsized lifeboats and wreckage floating off Cape Corse, northern Corsica. It was not known how many crew members were aboard.

In the Bay of Biscay, two lifeboats stood alongside the 475-ton Dutch coaster Eddy-stone which ran aground Friday night near the Isle of Glénan, Brest radio reported. A French lifeboat already has taken off four of the nine persons aboard, including a woman and child.

TIMES SQUARE DESERTED

Cars Stuck, Homes Cold As Blizzard Hits East

NEW YORK (AP)—A crippling blizzard generated by two big snowstorms that joined forces over the Atlantic coastline brought a mounting toll of deaths and misery today and slowed travel to a crawl.

The storm toll across the United States reached 55 this morning.

In some places, heating-oil supplies were running low, and deliveries were held up by heavy snows. Residents shivered in homes and apartments.

In Yonkers, a New York City suburb, 20 persons were found this morning in a White Plains-New York bus which stalled in the snow at 10 o'clock Friday night. Emergency crews could not reach it for hours.

As snow depth in New York

City reached 15 inches during the morning, the temperature rose to 32 degrees. It was the first time in 16 days that the mercury had climbed that high. The previous record of 15 sub-freezing days was set in 1880.

New York Mayor Robert Wagner issued an emergency order banning all unnecessary and non-emergency traffic from the streets. Thousands of workers and hundreds of plows tried to keep single lanes of traffic open past stalled, abandoned cars.

Syracuse had 15 inches of new snow. Newburgh and Olean reported 17 inches. Many stores shut up shop in Syracuse and elsewhere.

From the Carolinas to Maine deep snows from earlier storms mounted.

New York's big Idlewild and La Guardia Airports were closed. Trains continued to run, but sometimes hours late.

Snowplows fought a losing battle against the heavy fall and drifts on city streets and suburban roads.

The New York weather bureau, always reluctant to call a snowstorm a blizzard, officially gave it that tag at mid-morning, with winds whistling at 32 miles an hour.

In Connecticut, the New Haven Railroad closed its New Canaan-Stamford line.

Upstate New York, where

temperatures have gone below zero for 16 days, generally was having a rough time.

WOMAN HELD HOSTAGE BY ESCAPED CONVICT

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL, Que. (UPI)—An escaped convict held a woman hostage in her home today and threatened to kill anyone who came near the house.

Donald Pollack, 22, escaped from the outside grounds of the St. Vincent De Paul Federal Penitentiary after slugging a guard and stealing his .303-calibre rifle.

Jean Maurice LeBlanc was shot in the chest by the convict when he apparently did not understand a police order to stay clear and drove by the home. He was taken to a hospital in serious condition.

Pollack was traced to the home of Mrs. Roland Cyr, 45, wife of a prison clerk. When he saw police closing in he phoned the prison and said he would shoot the woman if not granted his freedom and also threatened to shoot anybody coming within sight of the house.

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Members of the House are already complaining of seasonal fatigue.

We have had two night sittings this week and three are promised for next week.

"I'm really browned off," said an MLA from the B.C. Interior. "When we have committees in the morning there is no chance for any rest at all. It is one long grind from 9 a.m. right through the afternoon and evening until whenever the government chooses to call a halt."

"I think they're just trying to wear us out before the big issues are debated. There is always less opposition when the Opposition is tired."

Next week's night sittings on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday will wind up the throne speech debate and pave the way for the 1961-62 budget to be presented by Premier Bennett on Friday afternoon.

We now have three women members in the legislature—Mrs. Buda Brown (CSC—Vancouver-Point Grey), Mrs. Lois Haggen (CCF—Grand Forks), and Mrs. Camille Mather (CCF—Vancouver).

"Still not enough," said Mrs. Alice Barnard, a visitor to the public galleries. "In England women are an essential part of political life. In Canada, I am afraid, they are hardly emancipated and British Columbia has a kind of Colonel Blimp attitude towards women."

"I would say at least one-third of the legislature should be made up of women. They have first-hand experience of human problems—raising children, household expenses, cost of food and clothing, and all the things that concern the taxpayer."

Mrs. Haggen confessed to a strong sisterly feeling for Mrs. Buda Brown, although their political philosophies are somewhat different.

"We have sat here for five years," she said, "and sometimes we have held little caucuses in self-defence. Now we have another woman member we feel safer."

Mrs. Haggen congratulated Mrs. Brown on her appointment as minister without portfolio and said she would do honor to the women of British Columbia.

Mrs. Haggen is proud that her husband, Rupert Haggen, once represented her constituency in the legislature. He was first elected in 1949 but did not seek nomination in the 1956 election because of ill health.

He suffered a stroke and has been confined to a wheelchair ever since.

In her quiet, earnest way Mrs. Haggen is a severe government critic, yet never seems to be talking politics. Verbally she roams all over the province and seems just as anxious for Victoria to have a new museum as for Barkerville to have a good centenary in 1962.

She warned the government against the folly of taking girls out of the 4-H (young farmers) clubs.

"If we are going to keep the boys on the farm we must keep the girls there, too," reasoned Mrs. Haggen.

She must have been thinking of that old song which goes:

How yer gonna keep 'em down on the farm
After they've seen Paroo

"I feel like a mosquito in a nudist colony," confided Alex Macdonald (CCF—Vancouver East) in his maiden speech. "I just don't know where to begin."

He made a pretty good beginning by attacking almost everything the B.C. government has done since it came to office in 1952.

"There wasn't any red meat in the throne speech," he said. "It was the tired speech of a government, conscious of entering its last term of office."

Premier Bennett tilted back in his chair and laughed. He seemed to think Mr. Macdonald was being absurd.

"The government is not afraid of me—and I may say the feeling is mutual," said John Tisdalle, the dark prophetic-looking member for Saanich.

Mr. Tisdalle has long been regarded as a potential rebel in the government ranks and has on occasion disagreed with it to the point of embarrassment.

"The farming experiences of my early youth seem to have given me a feeling of no fear, so long as I know I am right," he told the House.

Surrey Hardest Hit By Social Problems

Surrey's welfare problem is staggering—it is reputed to be the blackest area in British Columbia, James H. Rhodes, the second CCF member for Delta, told the legislature this week.

Mr. Rhodes said the social welfare report showed that in 1960 Surrey sent the second highest number of boys to the Provincial Industrial School for first offenders.

He added that 15 per cent of the population of Surrey was on welfare at the end of November last—4,138 out of a population of 65,000.

"A greater percentage than during the hungry 30s," said Mr. Rhodes.

EARLY PROBE ASKED

Mr. Rhodes appealed to the government's welfare department to investigate social wel-

Japan Busy Building Dams—Paget

Between 1950 and 1958 40 dams more than 200 feet high were built in Japan, according to Arthur F. Paget, B.C. water rights controller, who has just returned from a visit to that country.

Mr. Paget was addressing a recent meeting of the Vancouver Island branch, Engineering Institute of Canada.

"A further 40 dams between 500 and 600 feet high have been built since 1958 or are at present under construction," he said.

The surge of heavy construction has been brought on by application of new techniques and use of new materials, said Mr. Paget.

He pointed out that although Japan has a population of 90 million it is only half as large as B.C. It has a considerable mountain area, rather like the Coast Range—and most of the dams are located in this region.

Access, in many cases, involves miles of tunnel construction.

"Generally, the Japanese are producing high quality products," he said. "They have an intense pride in their work—both personally and nationally."

LOCAL BRIEFS

City police traffic Insp. Brooke Douglas left today for Ottawa, where he will take a one-week civil defence course at Arnprior CD College.

The course will deal with police problems in the event of total evacuation.

Saanich Reeve George Chatterton today expressed the hope that a new provincial mental home which the government plans to build, will be located in the municipality. Saanich has suitable property for such a building, he said.

He was commenting on a recent statement by Premier W. A. C. Bennett that construction of a new mental home for the Victoria area will come before any new government buildings.

Paul Mantell, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Mantell, 2173 Central, will be installed at 5 tonight in Kirk Hall as master councillor of the Oak Bay chapter of De Molay.

He succeeds Dennis Stokes, senior councillor at the installation will be Bruce Hardy and junior councillor Don Stillman.

The installation will be performed by the Degree of Chevaliers from Greater Victoria.

Mr. Mantell has been a De Molay member five years, four in Vancouver and the last year in Oak Bay.

Color Delays Marriage

DURBAN (Reuters)—A 36-year-old woman classified as non-white under South Africa's racial laws Friday was told she may have to wait four years to marry her white fiancé.

Charlotte Herbst applied for a court ruling to allow her to marry John Canna. The court reserved judgment but the judge said Miss Herbst was "perhaps whiter than many people classed as white."

Her lawyer pointed out that she had appealed her classification as non-white but that it might be four years before her appeal was heard.

RCN FRIGATES AT N. ZEALAND PORT SUNDAY

Three frigates of the RCN Pacific Command will arrive at Waitangi, Bay of Islands, New Zealand Sunday in the course of a three-and-one-half-month training cruise for officer cadets from HMCS Venture.

While at Waitangi, HMCS Ships Sussexvale, Beacon Hill and New Glasgow will take part in ceremonies marking the 121st anniversary of the signing of the treaty of Waitangi, which laid the foundation for New Zealand's place in the Commonwealth.

16% Increase In Scouts Last Year

Boy Scouts in Greater Victoria now number 2,936, a 16 per cent increase during the past year.

This was revealed Thursday by H. D. C. Hunter, president, at the annual meeting of the Greater Victoria Regional Council of the Boy Scouts Association.

Proficiency badges earned by Scouts during the year totalled 5,000, a 32 per cent increase over 1959.

The growth in the numbers and training standards of Scouts was attributed by Mr. Hunter to re-organization during the year.

EIGHT AREAS

The former Greater Victoria district was split into eight separate districts, each reporting to the new regional council. This change has brought into Scouting about 80 new committee and executive members on the district level.

Total of committee and executive members is now 425, up 22 per cent from the previous year.

Camp Barnard at Sooke was used extensively during the year with 3,200 boy-days recorded.

Among honors and awards during the year was a bar to the Long Service Medal presented to Cubmaster "L. H. Tooley, 1st Victoria Group, commemorating 50 years in Scouting.

Mr. Hunter was re-elected president for the ensuing year. Other officers named were:

C. W. Nash, vice-president; G. D. Frizzell, vice-president; C. F. Swannell, treasurer; T. G. Megaw, secretary, and members B. G. Alley, Jack Batey, E. C. Brown, S. T. FitzPatrick, R. O. Gunning, R. L. V. Jermain, N. Morrison, C. A. Perry, V. A. Ridgway and W. E. Whitley.

Lieut. Col. Reginald Girard was unanimously recommended for reappointment as regional commissioner.

Death of Woman Recalls 'Society Of Living Dead'

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Delores Smith, 55, once a painter of radium watch dials, died Thursday after 18 months of treatment for radium poisoning.

Mrs. Smith, of Ottawa, Ill., was one of a group of women employed by the defunct Radium Dial Company during the 1920s and 1930s. Many of them died of radium poisoning.

The cause of Mrs. Smith's death was not formally established immediately. Her death recalled the self-styled Society of the Living Dead, a group of 14 stricken former employees of Radium Dial Company who figured in a 1938-39 suit to test validity of workmen's compensation awards in radium-poisoning disabilities. Most of the women are now dead.

The courts upheld such awards in Illinois.

Youths Overpowered, Plane Grab Foiled

VIENNA (Reuters)—Thirteen-year-olds tried to take command of a Czech airliner at pistol point and force the crew to fly to a Western country last Friday, the Austrian news agency APA reported Thursday. The agency quoted travellers from Prague as saying three youths shot and seriously wounded the plane's pilot and a radio operator before they were overpowered.

By its lack of action the government has condoned the actions of the minister of highways and has done damage to our parliamentary system, and is therefore equally guilty."

'SHABBY TRICK'

Mr. Strachan said he made a statement instead of a motion because he was afraid the motion could hang up full discussion of highways issues.

"This government has a solemn responsibility to put its own house in order. I challenge the government to act and I await their decision."

Mr. Bonner, outside the House, took issue with the opposition leader's tactics.

Chief of 85,000 Workers in DVA, Sammon Honored

Coun. G. K. Sammon of Esquimalt, president of the Department of Veterans' Affairs Employees' National Association, recently was granted a life membership in the Victoria branch.

The presentation of a certificate and an inscribed desk set was made by branch president A. E. Mourant. Coun. Sammon heads more than 85,000 DVA employees.

The following have been elected to serve on the branch's executive committee for 1961:

President, A. E. Mourant; vice-president, J. P. Wyseman; secretary-treasurer, Miss G. Griffin; recording secretary, Mrs. R. Reitan; members, L. Fuller, L. C. Speller, J. Caton, Mrs. D. Flynn, G. Bunniss and W. Kilby.

LONDON (AP)—Leicester City today handed English League leaders Tottenham Hotspurs their first home defeat of a fabulous soccer season—thanks to two goals from inside right Jimmy Walsh.

A crowd of 54,000 turned up at Tottenham's White Hart Lane expecting to see the "Spurs romp to another win. Leicester looked the more impressive from the start and went on to win 3-2 on a goal by Walsh in the 67th minute. Walsh had netted a previous one for Leicester in the first half.

Wolverhampton Wanderers lost 2-1 at Blackburn, leaving Tottenham leading the First Division with 48 points from 28 matches followed by Wolverhampton with 40 points.

HIGH-SCORING GAMES

Sheffield Wednesday, who trounced Manchester United 8-2 in a mid-week cup replay, went goal-crazy again today—with a 5-1 victory over Preston.

Sheffield's win left it in third place with 38 points followed by Burnley, reigning English League champions and England's representatives in the European Cup, with 38 points. Everton with 32 and Aston Villa with 31.

Burnley's match at Birmingham today was postponed because of flooded grounds.

Preston's crushing defeat sent it nearer to relegation. At the bottom of the table, it has only 15 points from 27 games.

Waterlogged grounds, high winds and snow in the north upset form and forced postponement of several games.

Sheffield United, the English Second Division leader, lost ground when it was beaten 3-0 at Swansea. Its nearest rival, Ipswich, also suffered a setback, being held to a 1-1 draw at home to Rotherham, but narrowed United's lead to two points.

strates conclusively the opposition has neither the guts nor the grounds to pursue Mr. Gagliardi," he said.

"It's a cheap, smart-aleck trick, doing what he knew he could not do directly under the rules of the House," said the attorney-general.

Mr. Gagliardi's fight to sit as MLA for Kamloops was questioned first by Mr. Strachan on opening day of the session last week.

The reason given was his conviction for contempt of court.

The highways department paid $25,000 to contractor Clyde Thornton, while there was a court order directing a creditor to be paid off through a trust company.

Hospital Reports Accident Victim 'Fairly Good'

Victoria University student, John Peter Lawrence, 18, of 2458 Dryfe, is in fairly good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital with head cuts and a leg injury received when he was in collision with a car on Haultain Friday night.

Saanich police said the car was driven west on Haultain near Dean by Rev. Michael John McNamara, 2060 Haultain. It was overtaking another car.

Lawrence and his mother, who were en route to Veterans Hospital to visit John Lawrence Sr., a patient, were walking west on the south side of Haultain, police said.

afterward was declared excellent. The heaviest U.S. vehicle ever orbited was the 4½-ton "Atlas-Score" sent up Dec. 18, 1958. It broadcast President Eisenhower's Christmas message and relayed radio messages from ground stations.

Last May 24 the 2½-ton Midas II, sent up to test a system for detecting missile launchings, was orbited. Its radio failed after two days.

The U.S. is developing bigger booster rockets, including the Saturn, which is designed to carry as much as 15 tons in a low orbit, but will not be ready until late 1964 or 1965.

A British space expert in London tonight acclaimed the latest Sputnik as "a major stride forward" and said the launching removed any lingering doubts about man's ability to get into space.

Leonard J. Carter, secretary of the British Interplanetary Society, said the seven-ton Sputnik "is big enough to carry not one but two men on an earth orbit for a period of five or six days."

Skeleton Linked To Airwoman

HERNE BAY, England (Reuters)—Police today were investigating a possible link between parts of a female skeleton found on the beach here and the disappearance of Amy Johnson, pioneer British airwoman, 20 years ago.

Miss Johnson was working as an air transport auxiliary pilot ferrying material to France for the RAF during the Second World War when her plane crashed in the Thames Estuary in 1941. She then was 37.

She bailed out but never was seen again. Her parachute probably landed her within a few miles of this Kent town.

The bones on the beach, reported to be those of a woman dead between 20 and 50 years, were found by a 15-year-old boy.

Miss Johnson became internationally known when she flew alone from England to Australia in a second-hand Gipsy Moth in 1930.

THE CONDUCT OF SOOKE DISTRICT PUPILS

This ad is presented because the practising teachers of Sooke School District, who know the situation there best, wish to voice publicly their collective opinions.

The Sooke Teachers' Association through their Executive, express regret and concern over the implications inherent in the recent publicity on student behaviour in the Sooke School District. The manner in which the regulations were interpreted in the various news media implied that misconduct and lack of discipline were prevalent among the students.

We feel that this was an unfair and inaccurate implication. The teachers of the association state that they have full confidence in the general behaviour and moral conduct of the vast majority of their students.

No group in our society is more easily discredited by spoken and printed insinuations than our youth. The reason is that young people are practically helpless in any attempt to establish their personal innocence.

We regret that the actions of some sections of our news media and public have increased so tremendously our difficulties in fostering ideas of decency and fair play. The tendency of some adults to assume guilt until innocence is established has done irreparable damage to the reputations of several fine schools and over a thousand very fine young people. This is a very poor example for adults to set.

R. Pauwels,
Secretary, Sooke Teachers' Association.

The Bonus for the Giver

MR. J. M. MACDONNELL, A compassionate man, tells Parliament that foreign aid is justified not only on humanitarian and strategic grounds. It also provides direct economic benefits for Canada. When we give such help, Canadians get jobs.

Mr. Macdonnell illustrates his point by citing the facts on the Warsak dam, an undertaking by Canadians to help Pakistan.

"The sum of $36 million was spent there and 95 per cent of it represented Canadian employment," Mr. Macdonnell pointed out. That, he added, is what we are talking about when we speak of foreign aid.

Canadian engineers and technicians worked on the ground to build the dam. Canadians in factories in this country were employed to make the equipment. The Pakistanis received the benefits of the $36 million outlay, but they were by no means the only ones to profit. If this was bread cast on the water, making the bread provided a living for a substantial number of Canadians.

Mr. Macdonnell carries his argument further. He points to the ultimate benefits accruing from any action to raise the living standards of countries now existing at a subsistence level.

He knows, as do all other thinking Canadians, that this country's prosperity—the kind of prosperity which means pay cheques to the bulk of the population—depends on foreign trade. He has few illusions over Canada's prospects for a larger share of the world's markets under existing conditions of production in this country.

"I think," he says, "there is no reason to believe that in the face of European, American, Japanese and communist competition, we should expect to get a larger share of the present cake, so to speak; that is, of the present amount of international trade. Trade has got to be increased. Aid means trade, and one thing I want to underline is that aid means Canadian employment."

In other words, countries too poor at present to buy from Canada can become customers only when they can afford our products. They can afford our products only as they raise the standard of living for their own people, increase the average income.

Two figures illustrate Mr. Macdonnell's point. In 1959 the average per capita income in Canada was $1,507. In the underdeveloped countries, despite a substantial percentage rise in the preceding decade, it was about $130. People who make $130 a year do not buy much in the way of goods from Canada.

Foreign aid is justified, of course, on strictly humanitarian grounds. It is also a potent force to persuade uncommitted nations to look closely at the advantages of a democratic society providing it.

Mr. Macdonnell understands these points clearly. He performs an important service, however, when he draws attention to the very practical assistance it confers on Canada by employing Canadians and by helping to cultivate buying power in lands where, as far as Canadian exports are concerned, it does not exist at present.

Another Quebec Barrier Lifted

AT THIS SESSION OF ITS legislature, says Mr. Alcide Courcy, minister of agriculture, Quebec will pass a law permitting people in that province to buy margarine legally.

They are buying it now, through bootleggers. Since transactions are carried on under the counter, the product is not subject to regular inspection. Good, bad or indifferent, it is being bought, and it is being bought because, even through bootleg sales, it is cheaper than butter.

There can be few consumers in Canada who prefer margarine to butter on any grounds but price. The attraction in that respect, however, is overwhelming.

What removal of the ban against margarine in Quebec means to the dairy industry is indicated by a cursory look at population figures. That province contains roughly a quarter of all the people in Canada. If a substantial proportion of them did not buy margarine because such purchases were illegal and now turns to it, then butter producers face increased and daunting problems. The federal government is apparently devising a scheme to reduce the problems, though its details have yet to be revealed.

The people of Quebec, on the other hand, gain equality with most other Canadians in another field in which they have previously suffered discrimination.

No Revenue in a Dark Theatre

THE NEAR-DESPERATE POSITION of moving picture theatre operators in British Columbia has been laid before the provincial cabinet.

In recent years about 35 per cent of the show houses in the province have closed. More face the same fate unless some relief is given to them.

The immediate, tangible help, says the B.C. Exhibitors' Association, would be removal by the provincial government of the 10 per cent amusement tax. Savings to the individual operators from elimination of the tax would, in some instances, make the difference between staying in operation or going broke.

The operators make the point that certain other entertainment media are bonused by the government. They ask not a subsidy but freedom from a tax which they consider crippling—a freedom already enjoyed by exhibitors in Alberta and, in modified form, by those of Ontario.

If moving pictures are to be shown in theatres, some such consideration is essential. If it is not given, then more and more film houses will close their doors, people will be put out of jobs, a substantial part of the public will be deprived of a recreational attraction and, in hard economic terms, a business which provides revenue will cease to pay taxes.

The case of the exhibitors deserves favorable attention.

A Society Built of Wood

CAPTAIN JAMES COOK MADE the first recorded white man's investment in British Columbia forest products in 1778. The investment was cheap labor. Cook had put into Vancouver Island for timber to repair his storm-damaged ship.

Ten years later John Meares was offering wood supplies at Nootka as a sideline to his business in furs. Well before the first gold rush in this part of the world, the Muirs were operating a mill at Sooke, the Hudson's Bay Company at Parson's Bridge and Capt. William Brodie was trying to interest the British Admiralty in spars cut in the region of what is now Port Hardy. That was in 1849.

So runs the story of early timber activity in British Columbia, say the historians. This was the beginning of an industry which grew to prime importance and today accounts for approximately half of every dollar produced in the province.

After the discoverers and pioneers came the men who cut down trees to build settlements that became towns and cities, and more men who cut down trees—the most available marketable commodity—to pay for the towns and cities they built.

Timber was accessible wealth. The record of its harvest and conversion has become, to a very large degree, the economic and social backbone of our provincial history.

It is our misfortune that most British Columbians, even the well-informed, know all too little of that history. It is largely unknown because the record resides in the books of private operators who alone extracted the wealth from this resource.

To know our provincial story, the historians today, specifically the Forest History Society, are attempting to collect the information and correlate it into a cohesive picture of development and change.

The Society seeks, and is receiving, the information it wants, but it needs co-operation from everyone who can help.

When the data have been assembled, British Columbians will know better how they became the people they are, why and how they changed from the frontier economy, the reason for ghost towns in areas where the timber was cut out and not replenished. They will recognize, also, landmarks in the progress from logging with axe and oxen to the complex industry of today.

This is the big story of British Columbia, the story of a giant resource and the men who exploited it. Those who are preparing it deserve support from anyone who can assist in their research.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

THE unexpected fall of snow last weekend on the upper reaches of the Malahat made a hike in to Spectacle Lake an interesting adventure.

A sprinkle of snow covered the trees with a glistening coat. In the new growth of Jack pine that has taken over the area, each needle had a long, slender icicle hanging from it. The branches hung in a beautiful pattern against the background of the old Douglas firs.

The willows glowed with a golden-yellow sheen against the Red Alder catkins in their icy sheaths.

The lake was covered with about two and a half inches of ice, but the open waters of the creek with their rushing waterfalls were in spring-like contrast to the branches of the overhanging limbs, weighted down with ice coverings as they danced in the current.

The bursting buds of the salmon berry along the margins of the streams seemed to have gone into a sleep after the previous warm sunshine that had almost brought them into leaf and bloom.

In the snow one could follow the tracks of a deer where he had browsed on the tops of the shrubs and seedlings.

Tiny tracks of birds could be seen where they were hunting for food among the frozen grasses and where the insect-eaters were having a hard time breaking through the ice sheaths to get at the grubs in the bark of the logs.

Shipping Canadian Jobs Abroad Along With the Products

POLYMER Corporation's decision to construct a plant near Strasbourg, France, stands as an ironic lesson to trade policymakers in this bewildered capital.

Polymer is a crown corporation, the child of the federal government (although the Conservative government has been talking about selling it to private interests). It is one of the world's largest manufacturers of synthetic rubber, and as such supplies Western Europe with one-third of its whole rubber requirements.

Polymer is also conceded to be a well-run corporation, headed by men with a lot of business savvy, and considerable foresight.

For that reason, it is understandable they would take a long, hard look at the Common Market, to see how that economic Garden of Eden would affect Polymer's sales to Europe.

The men who direct the corporation didn't like what they saw.

One of the minor facets of the Common Market picture is a growing demand for specially rubber products. Someone had to supply that demand. Whoever did could conceivably grab off much of Polymer's whole rubber sales.

Polymer had to act, and the obvious thing to do was to construct a specialty products plant at the site of the corporation's headquarters, at Sarnia, Ontario, and ship the finished articles to Europe, as Polymer ships the whole rubber.

It would have meant a $12,000,000 plant investment for Canada, jobs for Canadian workmen, simplified administration, facilitated an integrated operation.

In addition, it would have fitted in very nicely with the Conservative government's avowed policy of stimulating secondary manufacturing in Canada, as a means of stimulating employment.

The fates conspired against such a convenient arrangement. The longer Polymer executives looked at the Common Market structure, the more they were convinced they would be unable to compete with possible rivals if they built their plant in Canada.

Transportation costs were a handicap, but not insurmountable.

What forced them to build in France was the possibility of a Common Market external tariff that would raise the price of the Canadian-built product beyond the bounds of competitive marketing.

The irony is that Polymer is a Canadian government operation. Its action in going to France is in contradiction to much that Finance Minister Fleming has been advocating.

Yet another member of the Diefenbaker cabinet, Raymond O'Hurley, the minister of defence production, was able to praise the move in a press release announcing the French plant.

According to Mr. O'Hurley, the French plant is "an integral part of an expansion program which would strengthen Polymer's position in the industry, and is expected to lead to further growth of Polymer at home and abroad, and to provide assurance that Polymer Corporation of Canada would continue to occupy a strong position as supplier to the world's rubber industry."

It is not inconceivable that other Canadian industries will have to make the same choice, as Polymer, and like Polymer be forced to build new plants in the Common Market nations, not only to get new business, but to retain old business.

The U.S. is having difficulty persuading its industrialists to stay at home. They are investing in Common Market industries at an accelerating rate for the same reasons as Polymer.

THEY'VE UNSETTLED ME FOR FAIR

A Hankering for Some Spot Sufficiently Different

WHEN anyone asks me where I would live if I had all the money in the world—this is, you understand, the kind of question that is properly called "academic"—I find myself in something of a quandary.

I am firmly of the opinion that England is the best country to live in if you are very rich, since it has a great deal to offer to anyone who doesn't have to consider the cost of living. But I know that after living for nearly eight years in a land where social democracy is pretty firmly established I would find much to irritate me in England today, even when one takes into account the undoubted changes that the post-war period has brought about.

I am too much of a Victorian to believe that I could spend the whole of the year anywhere else, even if I could afford to do so. But I have a hankering to put in a few weeks every year in some spot sufficiently different in climate or atmosphere to wake my ideas up.

Italy fills this bill in my wishful thinking to some extent: it is several countries in one, bound together by indissoluble ties of wine and sunshine and garlic; I know and love the people, and I can understand the lingo so long as I keep this side of tears or hysteria.

Emery

But I would not want to live there permanently.

Greece, as I have murmured in this space before, makes a great appeal, but since I have never set foot on Greek soil it may well be that distance has lent too much enchantment to the view. Mr. Miller and Mr. Durrell and Mr. Liddell and Mr. Leigh Fermor are persuasive advocates in their various books about this legendary land, and I may have been too impressionable in accepting their image of this country. However, I wouldn't mind giving it a try, though whether I should be happier in Athens or on the island of Hydra or deep in the Peloponnese is something I couldn't decide from here.

There is one country which I know fairly well where I think I could live quite happily during the winter months, and that is Switzerland. I have known it since I was a small boy woken up at the frontier by the incomprehensible demand for passports; and I have renewed the acquaintance from time to time since then.

Although I have spent some time in French-speaking Switzerland it is the Bernese Oberland that I know best, and that I most look forward to revisiting. I know that Harry Lime had a low opinion of Switzerland, which he compared unfavorably with the violent Florentine milieu that produced Michelangelo and Leonardo.

"Sell that peace and brotherly love and common sense," he said, "and what have they produced? The cuckoo clock!"

But I still think it is one of the best places in the world to spend a holiday.

Apart from the undoubted fact that you get more for your money in a Swiss hotel than anywhere else in the world, and discounting the scenery and the skiing, which is, to put it conservatively, not too bad, there is always the added attraction that one meets people from all over the world.

Every year the predominant nationality seems to change, so that where in the 1920's and 1930's the Oberland was pretty much an English dependency (after all Arnold Lunn's dad invented Murren), just before the war in 1939 there was a sudden plethora of Dutchmen. After the war the place was overrun by Belgians—hard currency, you know—and then the great occupation armies from the New World sent their representatives by the thousand.

We were last there at Easter in 1953, and if there is a more perfect place to spend a skiing holiday than Zermatt at that time of the year, I haven't met it. The sun burned us black in a week, and the daily trip up to the Gornergrat from the village in the ski-train with its sudden revelation of the Matterhorn when you get to the Riffelalp never seemed to pall.

And the evenings? A glass of absinthe—the real stuff, because the law seems to be interpreted rather elastically in the Valais—before soaking in a seven-foot bath, and then the superb food which reflects the gastronomic pride of three countries, and one was ready for the evening patrol of the village hoteliers.

That year we met some memorable Americans, and a very pleasant young Canadian lad from—low be it spoken—Toronto. Acquaintance made in the blizzard ripened on the slopes, and one American couple, with whom we skied and took the medicinal waters, has remained among our closest friends.

They turned up in Victoria last weekend, on the last lap of a voyage round the world by Land-Rover, having passed through the Belgian Congo and Ruanda-Urundi the week before the ultimate unpleasantness began. We hadn't seen them since we parted at Le Mans after the 24-hour race in 1953 and they hadn't changed a bit.

They had both broken legs at Davos in the interim, and been to Petra, and spent weeks skin-diving in the Indian Ocean, and travelled through Yugoslavia and Greece and Cappadocia (which really impressed them) and Syria and Israel.

Rich Americans, you say? Not at all. They threw up their jobs to make this trip, because they wanted to do it more than anything in the world. And now they are looking for jobs once more, to raise the wind to buy a ketch to sail around the world looking at the places they didn't get a chance to see the first time round.

What a crazy, irresponsible, no-good pair. I wish they hadn't come here, because they have unsettled me for fair.

'Never Be Happy Until He Reaches the Highest Position'

ARTHUR MEIGHEN, A Biography by Roger Graham, Volume One, "The Door of Opportunity." Toronto: Clarke Irwin, 1960. pp. ix 341.

By H. F. SOWARD, Head, Department of History, U.B.C.

WITH this able and well-written biography, Professor Roger Graham of the University of Saskatchewan joins the swelling ranks of scholars who are breathing life into the effigies of Canadian statesmen.

In the past five years, John A. Macdonald, George Brown, Alexander Mackenzie, J. S. Woodsworth and Mackenzie King have performed on the literary stage. Now it is Arthur Meighen's turn, not as an "unknown Prime Minister," as an English biographer depicted Bonar Law, but uncomfortably close to it.

In 1949, Professor Graham took his courage in both hands and having learned in an interview that Meighen did not plan to write his memoirs, asked the latter's permission to write his biography. The elder statesman then consented, sardonically doubting the popularity of such an enterprise, but giving the young scholar a completely free hand with his papers, answering his questions and preparing memoranda on episodes that were still obscure.

The subject became a hero to his biographer to such an extent that, as Professor Creighton's case, his greatest rival received less than justice. It is no secret that Meighen despised Mackenzie King, just as the latter disliked and feared him. But surely it was not necessary for the biographer to duplicate to such an extent the views of the Conservative leader. Let me illustrate.

When King, then minister of labor, first clashed with Meighen in debate the latter is described as gazing on King "with unsmiling scorn, like a hawk poised to swoop on a defenceless pigeon cooing endlessly and contentedly in the park."

To paraphrase Churchill: some pigeon!

MEIGHEN

When King ran as an anti-Conscriptionist Liberal in 1917 in North York he is pictured as one now emerged from a "scholarly cocoon" and then "fluttered briefly before falling to the ground." Compare that description with Skelton's account of the campaign before accepting its accuracy.

After King was chosen as leader of the Liberal party, Meighen could see him as a "self-important undergraduate in Toronto" (they were classmates), as a "pompous fuss-budgety minister of labor" and as an "absurd pretentious little man."

But it was this absurd little man who established an unequalled record for length of service as prime minister while his brilliant rival never won an election as prime minister and served in that post less than two years. As Bruce Hutchison once remarked of the two men, "The hare, as usual, underestimates the tortoise. That proved to be his ruin!"

Graham's biography covers the period from 1874 till 1920 when Meighen became prime minister, and ends with a delightful "set piece" on the reception his hero received in his constituency of Portage la Prairie. It brings out fully and clearly the drive and concentration which underlay Meighen's entire career.

The boy who practised debating politics with his father became the young man who told a relative he would never be happy until he reached the highest position. And reach it he did from qualities of concentration, clarity of thought and a retentive memory that made him the best debater of his generation.

"Borden has found a man" observed Laurier after hearing Meighen's first major speech.

Borden made him solicitor-general before he was forty and he quickly became the work-horse of the ministry doing jobs both difficult and nasty to serve the party and the country's interest.

to new Canadians who had been made British subjects. Meighen answered, "So far as I know there has been nothing in the proceedings of this Parliament to give rise to his fears and predictions."

But Graham himself shows that a measure to that effect which was purposely held off until the end of the session "had been prepared long before." That was probably why, when Meighen introduced the Wartime Elections Bill—an obvious gerrymander—"his speech was not one of his most impressive, perhaps because he had a much weaker case than usual."

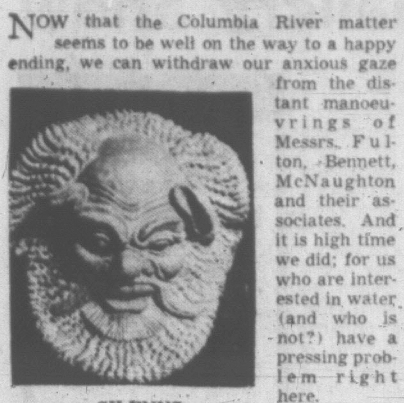

Coupled with the use of such political tactics was an incomprehension of public opinion which arose from the life-long "aloof detachment" which he displayed from his boyhood days.

Characteristically, Meighen as an MP "did not join easily in the camaraderie of the parliamentarians, but preferred to spend his time in his room or the library." Such a man would be baffled by what he called "the sensitiveness and soreness of the public mind in 1918" or could talk of the "labor crowd" which "seemed to be on the borderland between rebellion and lunacy."

It may have been, as the biographer claims, that Meighen's great abilities could evoke "feelings of passionate enthusiasm," but such emotions were felt by a minority.

The biography closes with Meighen's return to Ottawa, eager and confident, to confront the problems which faced him. I look forward to volume Two and Professor Graham's portrayal of the elements of a Greek tragedy which the hubris of the new Prime Minister created on the Canadian scene.

Downstream Detriments

SILENUS

Now that the Columbia River matter seems to be well on the way to a happy ending, we can withdraw our anxious gaze from the distant manoeuvrings of Messrs. Fulton, Bennett, McNaughton and their associates. And it is high time we did; for us who are interested in water (and who is not?) have a pressing problem right here.

Bowker Creek is once more in the news. Gentle readers will recall the negotiations, stretching back to the times of Mayor Harris and the riparian owners near the shores of Oak Bay, which have been going on, albeit sporadically, over many years. The time is now ripe for final settlement of this perpetually vexing question.

It was thought, at the time Oak Bay achieved full sovereign status as a district municipality, that the tireless work and resulting voluminous reports of various municipal engineers and other authorities, would at last receive the attention of the newly elected councils. But it was not, alas, to be.

The problem has been steadily and relentlessly shelved, with maybe a little work on the banks done around election time. The great matter of agreement as to flood water storage still remains undealt with.

In 1906 the Corporation of the District of Saanich came into being, and at once the matter was revived. For it was in Saanich that the waterway had its source. The trickling rills and laughing brooks of this rural paradise in due course became the gentle stream which, as it passed through the borders of Victoria, gradually broadened into the mighty sweep of Bowker Creek, rolling majestic and unhurried to the sea.

Ruthless drainage and culverting has sadly altered this noble river. The salmon which once passed upstream in their silver hordes to the spawning grounds at Oak Bay High School no longer make the trip. The others who lived upon the bosky banks have deserted their old hunting ground. The small boys who piratical exploits on the lower reaches are the foundation of many a local legend have all grown up into tedious adults clamoring for culverts, and more culverts.

But the basic question of water storage and flood control remains unsettled. Saanich, standing firm on the Harmon Doctrine, stays aloof. Victoria, merely riparian, expresses no interest. While Oak Bay, greedy for cheap power, steadfastly refuses to even consider the question of a quid pro quo.

It is certainly time something was done. We do not need another Report from the Intermunicipal Joint Commission. We need action, and at the highest level!

Bowker Creek must be tamed to the service of man, to the satisfaction of all.

Doctors Leave Today For Australia

A Victoria doctor leaves today for a month in Australia to study state medical insurance.

Dr. P. C. Banks will join Dr. E. C. McCoy, of Vancouver, president of the B.C. Medical Association, for a complete investigation of the medical scheme operating in Australia.

They will report on its success, advantages and disadvantages to the provincial association after their return in mid-March.

The study was set up last year in anticipation of stepped-up political demand for a medical insurance scheme in B.C.

The Australian system involves refunds for medical bills. It is considered to be one of the most successful plans in the world.

TRUSTEES WANT ACTION ON CHANT REPORT NOW

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia School Trustees' Association Friday urged immediate implementation of many of the recommendations of the Chant Commission report on the B.C. school system.

The B.C. Teachers' Federation said Thursday the legislature should take no action on the proposals pending further study.

President A. M. Harvey of the trustees' association said delay is "neither realistic nor sensible."

Mr. Harvey said the association is particularly anxious to see the commission's proposal for province-wide negotiation of teacher salaries implemented and swift action taken on proposed expansion of vocational training facilities.

'ECONOMIC ALBATROSS'

High Arrow Dam 'Quick Dollar'

The High Arrow dam is "an economic albatross around the necks of the people of this province," George Hobbs (CCF — Revelstoke) told the legislature Friday.

In an attack on the Social Credit government's attitude to the Columbia River power scheme, Mr. Hobbs said his constituents might as well be completely flooded out as suffer the damage expected to 40,000 acres when High Arrow is built.

"Yes, there's a quick dollar in High Arrow," he said. "But when the ultimate development of the river comes into effect that's a different story."

SURVEY TOO LATE

He criticized the study of the Columbia and Peace by the B.C. Energy Board. It only proved the B.C. government had entered into an expensive business without knowing what it would really cost.

But, he added, it would be impossible for the energy board to come up with any new estimates of cost, because it hasn't the time to make a new survey, or predict interest cost of the future.

It was charged with the task of proving export of power is justified, he suggested. As for the effects of High

Arrow: "People... will lose their shirts."

"I therefore ask this government if they insist that High Arrow is to be proceeded with, to get the water level up another 15 or 20 or 40 feet and flood us all out so there'll be compensation for all of us."

BRIDGE TO GO

One of the effects, he said, will be to ruin a new bridge across the Columbia which will be only four feet above new water level.

Mr. Hobbs said he had read everything available on the Columbia.

"Not one syllable in what I have read could be interpreted as favoring construction of High Arrow."

Disadvantages of High Arrow: no firm power production, no flood control inside Canada, storage benefits for the U.S. will decline, agricultural land will be lost for ever, roads, railways, will be destroyed, it will "bring to an end any future expansion" in Revelstoke.

"All this and much more cannot be envisaged to give a service to people that live outside the boundaries of Canada and a service that will provide no direct and no lasting benefit to the people of Canada."

Shumiatcher 'Partner' Of Manager

REGINA (CP) — Chief crown counsel Norman L. Mathews of Toronto led evidence Friday to show that Regina lawyer Dr. M. C. Shumiatcher was in partnership with Walter W. Luboff, manager of Columbia Metals Explorations Company, and in three other companies that had an interest in or transactions with Columbia Metals.

Dr. Shumiatcher is on trial on three charges of counselling perjury in connection with declarations allegedly prepared by him for two salesmen with Western Bond and Share Company which was selling stock in Columbia Metals.

The evidence Friday came from a former signing officer and salesman for Columbia Metals, Herbert Gjosund, who admitted that a Columbia prospectus named Luboff and Dr. Shumiatcher as owners of shares in the three companies.

Mr. Mathews told the jury he introduced the evidence to show that Dr. Shumiatcher had a definite financial interest in Columbia and to point up a motive for the offences he allegedly committed.

VICTORIA DAILY TIMES

ISLAND VIEWPOINT

Whose Land?

WEST COAST ADVOCATE — In the throne speech debate in the House in Victoria last week, Alberni member John Squire presented some telling points in favor of more roads to open up the west coast, and more use of existing roads.

In our own district there are roads which are closed, denying residents the chance to get out and look at the country which they, as citizens, own outright.

Although we swam under the impact of 22 inches of rain in January, many roads in this district were barred by steel gates. By way of giving a reason for the fact that they were closed, many bear a neatly-printed sign which explains at some length that the gate is there to protect our valuable forests from fire hazard.

There is a gate across the highway... the original highway... into the valley. There are gates on roads leading to fishing streams, to hunting areas, and on alternate routes to other communities.

Let's wish Mr. Squire success in his persisting campaign to give us more roads, and more use of existing roads.

Save Some Trees

COMOX DISTRICT FREE PRESS — The news that Central Mortgage and Housing has purchased land for 100 lots at the south end of the city and is now planning to install essential services is indeed good.

One interesting aspect of the CMH plan is that the lots will be left uncleared and that the purchasers will have the job of doing their own clearing.

Let us hope that whoever purchases these lots has an eye for greenery and will leave a few trees standing. Modern architecture, when applied to a limited building budget, can produce only designs little better than square boxes, and the average, present-day house needs a tree or two around it to relieve the monotony we see on so many streets.

River Control

COWICHAN LEADER — It has taken human distress to move local authorities to undertake seriously to do something about the future flooding by the Cowichan River.

It costs money to plan for the future. Failure to plan is like saying that community life here will be temporary only and that there is no need to make permanent installations. The recent flooding should have removed any such ideas. What has been built here deserves to be protected. With the Cowichan River channel left as it now is, this protection is lacking.

There can be nothing but damage to the reputation of this whole community if this situation is allowed to continue for another season. Failure to act in the face of repeated warnings is tantamount to an acceptance of guilt for what takes place.

A WRITER'S DIARY

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

It has been suggested to me that readers of this column might welcome some discussion of one or two of the many selections of World's Best Books which have been recommended during the past twenty years by great authorities. Such selections have long been known.

The Harvard Classics are famous, but they are also alarming when they are lined up on a shelf. Various forms of the Five Foot Bookshelf have been offered, and all the books in all its versions were certainly of classic stature.

Such sets of great books are, and until I have read them, I shall never need to buy a book again. The trouble is that after a while, I find myself peering at the titles and wondering if I have not already read them. I find myself peering at the titles and wondering if I have not already read them.

Mountainous Reading Task Needs Guide

Modern selections of great books are more realistic than the earlier ones, and they are more useful. They are drawn up by universities for use, and students read the books, and discuss them, under the guidance of their teachers.

Such courses take three or four years, and they are very demanding. I have never met anyone who read through one of these lists without assistance; doubtless such dogged self-educators exist, but they are very uncommon.

The lists are so frightening. I have two beside me: one is the Chicago University list, and the other is used at St. John's College, Maryland. Both begin with Homer's Iliad and Odyssey, which are tough chewing for readers who come to them unprepared.

Both lists require the reading of the whole of the Bible, and although millions of people have read the Bible

Knocking at Wrong Door Disheartens

It must be borne in mind also that these lists are compiled for young readers, working very hard under university auspices. These are tough reading, to test the quality of minds primarily devoted to study.

They are not for the man or woman, perhaps middle-aged, who sits down to read after a day's work at something else—perhaps something physically or mentally tiring. I advise such people against setting themselves vast programs of reading on the classic level, for they are likely to be disheartened, perhaps very early in the work, and to conclude that they are not very intelligent.

Such a conclusion is almost certain to be unjust. They are intelligent—their desire for self-improvement shows it—but they cannot do university work without university facilities.

They would be far better off to tackle a course of reading on some subject that strongly appeals to them.

The Penguin publishing company has just brought out The Reader's Guide, edited by Sir William Emrys Williams, and in Canada it can be obtained from Longmans Green, or from any good bookseller. It is intended for the general reader, and it contains 19 different lists, none of them too long, on subjects that range from anthropology, science, sociology and archaeology, to history, novels, plays and poetry; art, music, religion and philosophy have their lists, and so do classics, natural history, politics and psychology.

The lists are prepared by experts of international renown, and each list is introduced by a short essay on the subject. At a dollar a copy, this book is a splendid bargain for the person who wants to do some serious reading under first-rate guidance.

Please do not think that I brush aside the university lists of great books; I say only that they are for those who can work at them under university guidance.

And do not suppose that the Penguin Reader's Guide is a puff for Penguin books; some of them appear in the lists, but for their merit, rather than their publisher's.

If readers of this column are interested in further discussion of the lists of great books, I wish they would write to me, and I shall try to help them as well as I can in future instalments of this Diary.

There are thousands of people who read seriously, in spite of the gloomy statistics on the subject, and it is always a pleasure to hear from them.

Fourth of Series Lacks Vital Spark

HARVEST ON THE DON, by Mikhail Sholokhov. McClelland & Stewart, $4.25.

Reviewed By A. T. Cairns

"Harvest on the Don" starts off in fine old Russian fashion with a stalwart revolutionary—against the present regime this time—staring his mother to death before she can unwittingly betray him, then weeping copiously over her bier.

Unfortunately, the rest of the book doesn't live up to this promising opening. It is the fourth in a series that started with the successful "And Quiet Flows the Don," and both the author and his surviving characters are getting tired.

There are flashes of life and insight; the model collective farmer Makar who cannot bear even cocks who do not crow in unison; the old drover who remembers the vengeance that, as a young man, he took on his father's murderers; a surprisingly tender interlude of love between a middle-aged official and a teen-age peasant girl; but these incidents are isolated, and too rare, as are the sporadic bursts of action.

Even Communists, it seems, spend a great deal of time worrying over the state of their souls and as few of the characters in the book are very bright, this worrying, in the form of both internal and external dialogue, takes up an unconscionable amount of time and space. It is this that, ultimately, gives the book its air of heavy dullness.

There is too much talk, and not enough of it is sufficiently interesting or revealing to hold the reader's attention, while any majesty of language that might have aided the original is lost in the translation.

Art Gallery Picture Loan Offers 'Barron'

The regular picture rental at the Art Gallery will be Monday evening, Feb. 6, with viewing time from 7.30 p.m.

This month's new features include two large oil paintings by Victoria artist, Sid Barron, entitled "Harbour Sketch" and "Breakwater," a picture by R. Cicimarra which was recently exhibited at the Canadian Council Purchase Exhibition, and a delightful figure study by Nita Forrest.

These and many other original Canadian works of art may be rented by the month or purchased outright, and the gallery offers a plan whereby they may be purchased through time payments.

Fine Art of the Collector Revealed in Gallery Show

By ARTHUR CORRY

In the Centennial Wing of the Art Gallery will be found the acquisitions made during 1960 and a more interesting exhibit would be hard to find. Outstanding are the prints and drawings, and the contemporary paintings purchased with the Canada Council Grant.

Ploos Van Amstel 1726-1798 has created an etching after a line and wash drawing by Rembrandt and a print after the drawing by Willem Van de Velde. Both take one back to the golden era of Dutch art and are exceptional additions to the Gallery's permanent collection.

A choice oil painting is the "Harbour at Fecamp" by Eugene Boudin. He was a forerunner of the Impressionist School in France and influenced many with his light and sky effects. We are indeed fortunate in having this little gem presented to our gallery. Four engravings by William Hogarth of "The Harlots Progress," are of keen interest as rare collectors' items.

Auguste Renoir is now represented in the gallery by a dry-point, "Femme Nuë Couchée." An etching by Edouard Manet entitled "Charles Boudelaire" and Theodore Rousseau's "Chenes de Roche," with numerous other prints were purchased through the Florence Scott Memorial Fund. A collection of primitive masks of the Dan Tribe of Liberia, with a statue of a Mother and Child, are first articles, in what is hoped will be a large collection of African art.

Details of items and color of paintings, which have been presented from various parts of Canada and the United States, can only be appreciated by an actual visit to the gallery, and time is limited as this show is only on view for 12 days.

At the Victoria Art Gallery on Wednesday February 8th, at 8 p.m., the Marionette Library will sponsor the collection film "Elsa," the story of a remarkable African lioness. This film was made in conjunction with the writing of "Born Free" by Joy Adamson and released by William Collins Publishers. There will be a small admittance charge and all proceeds will be turned over to the Art Gallery.

Startling Metamorphosis in Europe As Germany Returns to Dominance

THE SHAPING OF POSTWAR GERMANY, by Edgar McInnis, Richard Harcocks and Robert Spencer. J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd., London and Toronto. 1960. $5.50.

Reviewed by Charles S. Burchill

This is a compact but very satisfying little book, prepared for the Canadian Institute of International Affairs. The opening and closing sections, dealing respectively with the search for a treaty settlement with Germany, and with the present position of Germany in the balance of power, were written by Professor McInnis. Professor Harcocks contributes an essay on Divided Germany, and Robert Spencer provides a detailed and amazingly lucid analysis of The Berlin Dilemma.

Complete with maps, index and a very useful chronology, the whole work occupies less than 200 pages, easily read in a single sitting.

The discomfort that follows the ingestion of this work cannot be blamed on the authors—they prepared the material carefully and presented it attractively—it is the facts themselves that are indigestible.

"Look back and see what we had successfully accepted or thrown away: A Germany disarmed by solemn treaty; a Germany rearmed in violation of a solemn treaty." So begins Winston Churchill's sombre summary of the European situation after Munich. Something the same chill that those words evoked returns with the contemplation of the present situation in Europe.

There are thousands of people who read seriously, in spite of the gloomy statistics on the subject, and it is always a pleasure to hear from them.

Greater Force

The armed forces of Western Germany now in being are greater than the combined forces maintained in Europe by all the other western powers; an officer of Hitler's former General Staff is in command of the ground forces of NATO; these forces are being armed with atomic weapons; every map of Europe publicly displayed in Germany, by law, must indicate the lands formerly held by Germany east of the Oder-Neisse line as "German territory under foreign control"; German strategists have convinced themselves and apparently their NATO allies that a military expedition across the Oder-Neisse line, using atomic weapons but with strictly limited objectives, would be unlikely to lead to a general world war.

A situation has arisen where reckless policies appear more and more tempting to West German politicians, and in which the Western allies of Germany appear unable or unwilling to check this appetite.

Growing Ascepdancy

"As West Germany grows in strength and self-confidence, she may be increasingly tempted to take initiatives on her own account, especially if her growing ascendancy in Western Europe encourages her to feel less dependent on the favorable attitude of other Western countries and more in a position to strike out on her own line of policy even in the face of their disapproval. And if this should be accompanied by a revival of German right-wing nationalism, it is not inconceivable that revision

United States policy at the Quebec Conference in 1944 and at Yalta in 1945 had been reversed by 1946.

We need an adequate explanation of that reversal, but such wider explanations are of course beyond the scope of a work of this kind. The same is true of the process by which Germany came to dominate the European Coal and Steel Community and other Western economic organizations.

The fact of domination can be recorded, but neither the methods by which it was achieved, nor the considerations which compelled the Western allies to permit its achievement, can be readily condensed and so have to be omitted.

An Omission

Throughout the work the authors have depended on Western documentary sources. In view of the extensive publication by the Soviet government of war-time correspondence, and the availability of these publications in English, it seems an omission that they should not occasionally have been used to illustrate the growing divergence of Western from Russia policy.

The fact that an opponent's argument is left unanswered need not mean that it is unanswerable, but historians should at least show signs of having considered all the available evidence. One or two footnotes indicating that the writers had seen material published in East Germany, Russia or Poland would have improved the stature of the book. Are proof-readers really as incompetent as most recent books seem to indicate? Usually their blunders are only an irritation; it does not require too much agility for the reader to guess that the Professor Ludwig Erhard who appears on page 71 is the same Dr. Erhard who is encountered on page 171, but it is asking a

U.S. Treasury Plan

The most fervent supporters of a Carthaginian peace were to be found in the United States during the war. It was the United States Treasury memorandum known as the Morgenthau Plan that went further than any later plan considered by the Allies to obliterate German political and military power; it was the Office of Strategic Services that dreamed up the figure of $20,000,000,000 which Russia first accepted and later insisted on as the bill for reparations to be extracted from Germany.

Guild Casting Masterpiece By Wilde

Tryouts are being held this Sunday and Monday at 8 p.m. at Langham Court Theatre, for Victoria Theatre Guild's most ambitious production this season.

The play is Oscar Wilde's brilliant comedy, "An Ideal Husband," which will be directed by Richard Litt and is scheduled for opening May 5.

There are 12 characters, six of each sex, and, small or large, every part is immensely rewarding from the actor's viewpoint.

The play was written at the height of Wilde's career and first produced at the Haymarket Theatre, London, in 1895.

It might be described as a satire without malice on political machinations. It is set against a glittering background of high society, is richly spiced with epigrams and maintains a constant fire of witty dialogue.

No parts have been pre-cast and no casting decisions will be made until readings are complete.

Dazzling, Difficult . . . Symphony Program

Canadian pianist Ronald Turini, a former pupil of Horowitz and winner of high European awards in piano competitions, will be heard Sunday afternoon and Monday evening, playing the dazzling Rachmaninoff Rhapsody on a theme by Paganini, as guest artist with Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

This, the seventh pair of concerts, will be conducted by Clifford Evens. Mr. Evens' program includes, besides the Rhapsody, an Elizabethan Suite, arranged by Sir John Barbirolli, Berlioz' Roman Carnival Overture and the Bartok Concerto for Orchestra.

Of the latter composition, Hans Gruber, symphony music director, has this to say:

"It is a fact that Bartok's Concerto for Orchestra has become known more by means of recordings than by live pub-be prepared to guarantee unconditionally beforehand that nothing whatever would go wrong.

"Bartok takes us here into new and hitherto unexplored realms of orchestra technique, much as Paganini did for violin technique in his day, and Liszt in respect of the piano. "If, for listeners, this work is an exciting, even shattering experience, then for the performers it has come to be regarded as the ultimate known test of their collective and individual skills, and, perhaps primarily, a play on, and test of, nerves without peer.

"Let us pray!" Next month a series of school concerts will be given by the Victoria Symphony. Two of these will be for students of Greater Victoria schools and two for up-island students.

Organist Announces Program

Installation of the custom-built organ at new St. Patrick's Church in Oak Bay, has been so handled as to obtain full advantage from the exceptionally fine acoustical properties of the church.

A demonstration of both organ and acoustics will take place Tuesday evening at 8.15, when a recital of music selected especially to exploit the organ's capabilities, will be presented by Jack F. Lenaghan.

Following is the program in detail:

J. S. Bach: Prelude and fugue in E Minor (the "Cathedral"); chorale, "Herr Christ, der ein'ye Gottes Sohn"; chorale, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring"; concerto in G Major, No. 1.

Thomas Arne: Flute solo, "Karg-Elert: Praise the Lord with Drums and Cymbals."

Dupre: Antiphon III (from Vespera da Commun).

Brahms: Two chorales, "O World I Now Must Leave Thee," "O Blessed Are Ye Faithful Souls."

Vaughan-Williams: "Green-sleeves."

Bocelli: Toccata (from Suite Gothique).

SINATRA'S START

Frank Sinatra, a sports reporter before he became a singer, spent his early days as a vocalist with a group known as The Hoboken Four.

HOHNER SYMPHONY

Classics, Heady Bravura Draw N.Y. Critic Raves

After being celebrated in international concert halls since 1947, Germany's Hohner Accordion Symphony embarked this season on its first North American tour. A Victoria performance is scheduled for Tuesday at the Royal Theatre at 8.30 p.m.

While the accordion has its own and rather large following in this city, there are many among regular concertgoers who hold the instrument in little esteem, associating it with purely popular and folk dance type music.

Accordingly therefore, for the benefit of these uninformed, it is worth while to quote from a review of the Hohner Symphony's New York Debut, written by Louis Biancolli, widely known critic of the New York World-Telegram:

"These are true virtuosos, trained for the classics in the subtleties of dynamics and phrasing, flawless in their solo and ensemble technique."

"Led by Rudolf Wuthner, the world-touring group fused and molded tone with compact strength in pieces by Handel, Weber, Mendelssohn and Liszt. An astonishing tour de force was Rossini's 'William Tell' overture."

Andy Arcari evoked swirls of heady bravura as guest artist in Sarasate's "Gypsy Airs." Mr. Wuthner . . . was his own brilliant soloist in Liszt's "Fantasy."

"A highlight of the evening was the harmonica playing of Gunther Wertz. Breath-taking skill and purity of tone marked his readings of pieces by Haydn and the encored 'Hora Staccato.' Mr. Wertz would give . . . Larry Adler a run for his reeds."

Virtually the same New York Town Hall program is scheduled to be heard here.

(BB PLUS) "MIDNIGHT LACE" (Odeon) - Universal International's "Midnight Lace," by Ivan Goff and Ben Roberts, is a handsomely mounted film filled, for the most part, with very handsome people who can act.

Speaking personally, however, and with regret, I thought this tale of suspense was marred somewhat by the characterization of Doris Day as called upon to portray. Seemingly to be an entirely normal woman at the outset of the picture's 108 minutes' running time, she dissolved too quickly for my liking into a neurotic bundle of nerves.

But, even more disheartening, I was able to put my finger on whodunit too early in the plot, which isn't like me. I'm the type of bloke who wouldn't know who cut off the tails of the three blind mice unless I had been allowed to read the script first.

It starts out when wealthy American Doris Day marries London business tycoon Rex Harrison. About three months later she is returning to her flat when an eerie voice comes out of the fog to speak of sudden death by the end of the month. No sooner has she shaken this off than the telephone starts ringing and the same voice at the other end of the line mutters obscenities and repeats the promise of death.

Soon Doris is almost off her rocker, commencing to suspect everyone - Roddy McDowall, her housekeeper's son; construction foreman John Gavin, and Herbert Marshall who is treasurer of Harrison's firm. She becomes so upset over the mysterious threats that her aunt, Myrna Loy, urges hubby to take her away on a trip.

Unfortunately, somewhere along the way the average patron will start thinking of "Sorry, Wrong Number," "Dial M for Murder" and others of their strain, and "Midnight Lace" may suffer in the comparison.

Why go then? To watch Miss Day, I would suggest, do an extraordinarily good job at making an unbelievable role appear believable. She has come a long way this pop singer until today she can take her place among the first-ranked in the business; to watch Harrison, Marshall and Miss Loy show off their professional abilities which are considerable; to see Miss Day's superb wardrobe by Irene, and admire the sumptuous apartment with its lavish furnishings.

THE WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Rooted offshoots of perennial asters (Michaelmas daisies) can be removed from outer edges of old clumps and grown on in a cold frame or a specially prepared nursery row of sandy compost.

Beds or groups of spring bulbs which have been in longer than a year may be lightly dressed with bonemeal. When buds are well up, a light dressing of complete fertilizer will build up the bulbs for next year.

Seed of fibrous rooted begonias sown indoors now will produce bedding plants for summer. The seed is fine. Screened soil, thin sowing and no soil covering are the rules. Cover with glass and paper until germination takes place.

Lightly cultivating between strawberry plants will hasten growth, and development of flower buds when the time comes.

Parsnips and leeks can be used straight from the garden so long as new growth does not commence, for this changes them chemically and makes them unpalatable.

A root of chives dug from the garden and put into a pot of soil will soon produce appetizing green stems. Keep the pot in a sunny window, after a few days in shade to become re-established.

Mint will also soon grow new shoots if potted.

Use freshly picked sprigs of other perennial herbs—sage, thyme and rosemary.

At Carlton Feb. 17

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual "Bosses Night" at the Carlton Club, Esquimalt, Feb. 17. About 130 guests are expected to attend.

Guest speaker will be Prof. Neil Perry, of the commerce department at University of British Columbia.

Idea of the event is to "educate" employers on the aims and work of their Jaycee employees.

BEASTALL ADVISES

No Mystery in Pruning If Fruiting Habits Known

By JACK BEASTALL

Before any attempt at pruning fruit trees can bring success we must know why we prune and what the results of our pruning will be. The idea that pruning is necessary to make a tree bear fruit must be discarded.

Any tree which naturally produces fruit will do so without our help, although the naturally produced fruit may not be acceptable to us as food. The main object of any plant is not to please our palates but to produce seed so that the species may continue.

Pruning is designed to reduce the number of fruits the tree can produce and thereby improve the size of the fruit.

When a fruit tree makes a reasonable amount of new growth each year and produces fruit of satisfactory size and quality, it is in good balance and needs no interference.

Under such conditions, pruning would reduce the amount of top growth and leave an excess of root which would still deliver the food supplies in quantities sufficient to maintain what remains of the tree and parts we have cut away.

The result of this would be to stimulate dormant buds, that is, buds which are held in reserve in case of mishaps, and the tree would produce quantities of new wood in an effort to restore the balance, and possibly do so at the expense of fruit production for a few years.

Quality in fruit depends partly on sunlight and free circulation of air, and since pruning aims at improving quality as well as size, it involves judicious thinning out of growths so that sun and air may reach the majority of the fruits.

Our attitude toward fruit tree pruning is still influenced by the handed-down belief that no pruning means no fruit, but with the varieties grown today it is more often a case of no fruit being the result of too much pruning.

It is during the formative years, the first five years in the life of a tree, that pruning is essential, and yet it is during this period we find gardeners reluctant to ply the cutters.

Once the tree begins to bear a few fruits there comes the ture and the Dominion Experimental Farm.

Also there are fruit tree pruning demonstrations sponsored by gardening groups and handled by experienced horticulturists from the Department of Agriculture.

While these demonstrations are arranged primarily for the instruction of members and are usually held in private gardens through courtesy of the owners, the public is usually welcome where space permits. Three demonstrations have already been announced in the daily papers and others should appear during the month.

The manner of fruiting also has a bearing on the pruning procedure. The apple, for instance, bears fruit on specialized growths called fruiting spurs, and it is estimated that an apple spur is good for about 15 years.

Pears bear on fruiting spurs and so do plums, but the plum spurs have a life of only five years or so. It follows that a plum must be encouraged to make new fruit spurs almost yearly if the tree is to continue in production, whereas renewal is not so important with apples and pears.

Apples and pears are pruned while dormant (February in this area), plums after the fruit has set so that the excess sap will go into the fruits instead of bursting the bark and causing trouble, peaches as soon as the crop has been harvested.

The peach bears fruiting buds on new wood produced the year previously, and these buds do not fruit again as in the case of a spur. Cherries need very little pruning in the true sense, judicious thinning of growths being sufficient and this is often done in summer.

New Paint Products For Basement Room

Today the basement room is the family room. Father's fishing rods, Mother's fancy lampshades, Susan's rock 'n' roll records and Sammy's train all go down to the basement room. More often than not it's a do-it-yourself room with Father as chief carpenter and Mother as decorating adviser.

While it's easy for Mother to say what colors she wants it's not so easy for her to give advice on the kind of paint to be used for finishing the family room. For practical advice of that kind Father will likely have to go outside the family.

Hugh Campbell of the color studio, Canadian Industries Limited in Toronto, is accustomed to answering the questions of the do-it-yourselfers. According to Mr. Campbell, for walls finished with wall-board or plaster—even walls of brick or concrete—latex paint is a good choice.

It dries in minutes and stands up well to washing and rough treatment. The walls may be given two coats of latex paint put on with a brush, roller coater or spray. Where dampness may be a problem on concrete or brick, a special acrylic masonry paint highly resistant to alkali and moisture staining is available.

Alkyd paints are preferable to latex for wood trim. New wood should be primed with undercoat and a high quality semi-gloss enamel finish used. If the same color as the wall is desired on the trim around basement windows and doors, it's possible to match latex and alkyd paints.

Wood panelling may be treated with wiping stain to deepen the color of the wood if required. A coat of clear varnish in either high or low sheen is then applied. Tinters are also available to give color to the varnish.

For either concrete or wooden floors, there's a new latex floor paint which dries quickly to a low sheen. It is easy to apply, stands up to rough wear and can be waxed for added shine.

Mr. Campbell's last word for the home painter is that high quality paint must always be used if the do-it-yourself basement is to withstand hard wear.

9-4-1 Split On House Committees

Legislative committees named Thursday split down the party line 9-4-1.

The breakdown is nine Socialists, four CCFers and one Liberal for each standing committee except agriculture, which has eight government members.

Committee chairmen have not been chosen.

However, conveners named include J. Donald Smith (S.C. Victoria) for labor, and William Speare (S.C. Cariboo) for social welfare and education.

The 9-4-1 split reflects House membership of 32 Socialists, 16 CCF and four Liberals.

Lost Space Adds New Room

It is possible to add a new room to many homes without actually building it.

The trick is to convert seldom-used space into a den, recreation, family or sewing room. Look for the space in an unfinished basement, in a spare room used for storing odds and ends or in a summer sunroom used only a few months a year.

Most of this space is likely to be inadequately heated, of it probably would be used to better advantage. But it is possible to solve that problem, without any changes in your present heating plant, by installing a modern gas or electric space heater.

Do-it-yourselfers can install the heaters in a few hours.

The next step is to cover the walls of the space with one of the new easy-to-apply wall coverings that also provide extra insulation against heat loss.

Grooved hardboard panels, laminated onto fibreboard, make an excellent choice. Virtually any handyman can install them. The panels slide together into place and are clipped or stapled onto furring strips.

Wool felt, oil-impregnated canvas and cork tile also make attractive wall coverings and are widely available in new easy-to-apply form. All give some protection against heat loss.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

Q.—Is it unusual for a camellia to be in flower in January?—K.P., Saanich.

A.—Considering the mild temperature enjoyed during most of January, nothing which happens in our gardens can truly be termed unusual. It is natural that spring flowering trees and shrubs in gardens near salt water, or in high locations among trees, will be showing early bloom. Even in our own rather exposed location we have two large stems of yucca flower buds well up, although this is native to hot desert country.

Q.—Most of the summer flowering shrubs seem to be white. Can you suggest any other colors, and would they be easy to obtain here?—S.V., Oak Bay.

A.—Deutzia, double pale pink flowers; Weigela "Eva Rathke" carmine pink; Kolikwiza amabilis, dainty pink with orange throat; Buddleia variabilis (davidii) "Royal Red"; Cistus purpureus (rock-rose) pink; Spartium Junceum (Spanish-broom) yellow, scented; Ceanothus, shades of blue, and also pink. All these shrubs, and all other plants mentioned in our garden columns (unless otherwise specified) noted as being difficult to find are available at most of our local nurseries.

Keep Winter Employment at Its Highest Possible Level!

Now is the time to make improvements and repairs while skilled workers urgently need work. Workmen are now available for all types of work, painting, building, repairing, alterations, etc. HAVE THE WORK DONE NOW—DURING THE WINTER SLACK PERIOD.

Remember! When Everybody Works — Everybody Benefits!

Public, Private Projects Raise Employment Figures

Mr. David Wright, chairman of the Greater Victoria Winter Work Campaign Committee, says that men are employed on municipal winter work projects.

Victoria Misses Hepatitis Surge

Victoria has escaped an upsurge in infectious hepatitis that has hit the Pacific Northwest, health officials report. Victoria-Esquamalt Medical Health Officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy today said only three cases of the illness, formerly known as yellow jaundice, were reported to her department "in all of 1960 and there have been none so far in 1961. 'I know, from all the reports, that it has been giving trouble in the rest of Canada but so far it hasn't been much of a problem here.'

ects under the federal-provincial labor cost sharing plan.

The committee chairman reported that there have been 48 projects approved in the Greater Victoria area of which 17 have been started and are either completed or still under way. He further stated that almost 200 men have so far been employed or retained in employment for various periods, under this government-sponsored plan.

MORE PLANNED

It is understood by the committee that more of the approved work will be started throughout the area as municipal funds become available.

Construction in the area, started as winter work projects, is also employing another several hundred men—these projects include the new Law Courts Building, eight-storey apartment block on Douglas Street and several smaller apartments throughout the city.

Other construction work, employing tradesmen and laborers can be seen going on in various sections of the city. Householders are also contributing to the winter work appeal, with much work being done inside and outside private homes and Mr. Wright expressed satisfaction with the results of the campaign so far and felt that there is more of a community effort this winter than in previous campaigns.

City's Biggest 'Big Top' for Boat Show

Largest tent ever to spread a roof in Victoria will be set up beside the Quadra Street Curling Rink for the Vic-Van-Isle Kinsmen Club boat show April 6, 7, and 8.

Last year a huge tent beside the rink helped the club to accommodate almost as many exhibits as displayed in the main building. This year co-chairman Ed Beck and Ken Clark are making arrangements for rental of an even larger tent.

Proceeds from the show, fourth to be put on here by the Kinsmen, will go to club charities.

WHY WAIT FOR SPRING?

During the winter months, unhurried tradesmen can do better jobs—and often far more economically. Another good reason for doing it now is that Home Improvement Loans can be financed now under the National Housing Act, up to $4,000, with up to ten years to repay. The Act also covers rental dwellings and apartment houses. Special Farm Improvement Loans are also available, up to $7,500, with up to ten years to repay. U.S. NET BODY TAKES WATERED-DOWN STAND

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The United States is ready to propose to the International Lawn Tennis Federation that each country be permitted to make its own decision on the open tournament problem.

For instance, if the U.S. wants to hold an open, okay. If Australia and England are against it, they not only don't have to hold such an event but can forbid their players to participate in the U.S. tournament.

The tournament would be open only to those players sanctioned by their respective national associations.

This is a watered-down stand on the pressing open question which swept through the executive committee Friday night and today goes before the general meeting of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

In Toronto, John Bassett, president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, said he regards the plan as "at least a step toward open tournaments."

ANOTHER SLANT

By OSCAR FRALEY

DUCK KEY, Fla. (UPI)—Amateur tennis is on the ropes because of politics and "half-witted management," doubles immortal George Lott asserted Friday, and there is no solution in sight to keep it from being killed off completely.

"It's almost dead now," snorted Lott. "It's shot and the people who run it aren't doing anything to get it back on its feet."

It's a situation, he argues, which can't help but get worse.

"The Australians have the right idea and yet even they are fighting a losing battle against the inroads of golf," says the man who played on seven Davis Cup teams from 1928 through 1934, won five national doubles championships with three different partners and captured the Wimbledon doubles title twice.

"Let's face it, we weren't amateurs in my Davis Cup days and neither are the competitors now," he bit off. "The sham of amateurism has been tolerated too long. We should do like the Aussies and let our amateurs have affiliations with sporting goods manufacturers. But the way it is, our players have to lie and steal by means of the expense account."

There was a time, he feels, when the top amateurs could more than hold their own with pros.

"But today they jump too quick," he says. "Look at Earl Buchholz. In a year or two he might have had everything his own way. Now he's just a preliminary boy in the pro ranks. So where does that leave the amateurs? Well, if they go to open tennis tournaments, I doubt if any amateur in the world could make the round of 16—let alone the round of eight."

There is no reason why Australia should dominate amateur tennis in the manner which it has over the past few years, says the outspoken tennis pro.

"Don't try to tell me that they have better kids than we do," he barks. "It's simply a matter of politics and our people run our game like a bunch of half-wits."

"Australia, no matter what political changes it undergoes within its tennis ranks, always is smart enough to retain the brilliant Harry Hopman as its Davis Cup captain," he pointed out. "Who did we name? A fellow named Dave Freed. A nice enough fellow. But we had a good captain in Billy Talbert. Freed was never a top-ranking player. Talbert knew all there was to know about top-flight international play, but he was on the wrong side of the political fence."

Lott agrees with another pro star, Fred Perry, that open tennis would be good for the game because by competing against the pros the amateurs would get an opportunity to develop. But it is his feeling, too, that as long as Jack Kramer tries to retain control of any open play the various nations will not sanction such competition.

"Obviously they are afraid of losing control of the game," he explains. "Thus it is natural to assume that they will withhold their permission as long as Kramer insists on being in the driver's seat."

Looking back over a long and distinguished career, Lott feels that Big Bill Tilden still must be rated as the greatest player of all time.

"You couldn't put Pancho Gonzales very far behind him," Lott insists. "Then I'd have to rank Perry as the third greatest, followed by Don Budge and Kramer."

And, the way things are going, it will be a long time before anybody develops who can crack into that exclusive company.

Maybe, he says, never.

Club Pro Clinging To Tourney Lead

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Lanky Al Mengert clung to the lead in the $50,000 Palm Springs desert classic Friday with a 54-hole score of 201.

Mengert, a 31-year-old club pro who plays little tournament golf, knocked four strokes off par at the Bermuda Dunes club to go with previous under-par rounds of 68 and 65.

With two more rounds to go in the 90-hole event, Mengert kept a one-stroke lead over his nearest rival, Bob Rosburg. Rosburg has scores of 65-69-68-202. Ken Venturi's 67 put him within striking distance at 203.

Al Balding of Toronto was nine strokes off the pace with a 210 total. He shot a 72 Friday to go with previous rounds of 68 and 70.

Vancouver's Stan Leonard was one stroke further back. He has had rounds of 71, 69 and 71.

Organized sportsmen in the province as well as fish biologists and conservationists have long pressed for the system which is the only means to date of providing an effective program of fish management.

Sweden's national team has lost four players in two matches against the hard-playing Canadians, and the Stockholm press today feared there will be no Swedish players left for the world tournament in Switzerland next month.

After Friday's tough match in which Canada defeated Sweden 4-1, one of Sweden's best players, Lars Erik Lundwall, said his injury will keep him off the team for the rest of the season.

Sportswriters were wondering what will happen in Leskand and Gaevle where the Smoke Eaters are scheduled to play two matches. The Swedish selection committee Friday picked a "B" team for these matches.

The president of the Swedish ice hockey federation, Helge Berglund, today blamed the Czech referees for the fighting which broke out in the second period.

"The referees should have intervened in the first period to put an end to the rough play," he said.

Aside from criticism of their alleged tough tactics, the Canadian world cup team finally received good press today.

"We think the Smoke Eaters will give the Soviets a hard match for the world title," said the Svenska Dagbladet.

Sweden this season has beaten Czechoslovakia, the Soviet Union and Canada in international matches. The Swedes blanked Canada 4-0 Thursday.

The angriest Canuck on the ice was no doubt player-coach Bob Kromm. He tried to calm his boys down, but in vain. When Don Fletcher threatened to hit one of the Czech referees and was shown to the penalty box for a 10-minute rest, Kromm skated up to the box and said:

"Are you crazy, what are you doing?" Fletcher spent as much time

WELL-REGARDED challengers for mixed doubles title in B.C. Open badminton championships are Vancouver's Rolf Paterson and Carol Ashby. Tourney, being staged at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, winds up with finals Sunday. (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

Badminton Magnetism: 'It's Tough, But Clean'

By MICHAEL ROSE

There is a certain clean quality about competitive badminton that puts the game in a class by itself.

At the current B.C. Open championships at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, players take the courts and go through three sets with no referees, no linesmen and a bare minimum of mild protest.

Even in a crucial match players rarely even dream of calling a foot-fault on an opponent and the offender, just as rarely, fails to call it himself.

"You just automatically accept the fact that you are on your honor," said Rolf Paterson.

The six-foot, one-inch Canadian junior mixed and men's doubles champion is currently seeded fourth in B.C. and rated a good prospect for future national honors.

While at Vernon High School he almost singlehandedly dismantled the traditional theory that you have to be a quarterback for "Big Man on Campus" rating.

When he left the interior school he was captain of the soccer, cricket and badminton teams as well as a leading boxer and skier.

"I began to put the emphasis on badminton," he said, "when I found I enjoyed it most."

"Competitive badminton is much harder, physically, than soccer or cricket because you are going all the time."

"In fact the rule book says quite definitely, 'There shall be no rest period,' and two hours of continuous play is pretty tiring."

Condition Paterson's Main Worry

A first-year engineering student at University of B.C., he admits he may be in trouble at this tournament because of lack of time to condition himself.

"I'll be all right for one game but don't be surprised if I fall apart after that."

His bid for success in the Canadian Open last year was rudely shattered by an early draw which put him up against Denmark's Finn Kobber, rated as one of the world's finest shotmakers and second in ability only to global champion Tan Joe Hok.

Leos To Train At Qualicum?

Qualicum Beach will be inspected Monday as a possible summer training camp-site for B.C. Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Head coach Wayne Robinson, club president Ralph (Hunk) Henderson and general manager Herb Capozzi will make the trip. Robinson will also address the Qualicum Beach Rotary Club.

Friday results: Men's Open—Bob Hunt, Vic. beat Keith Tolman, Vanc. 15-3, 15-7. Men's 15-18—Jack Stewart, Frew, Vanc. 15-2, 15-3. Jack Barrett, Seel, beat Frank Remy, Vanc. 15-11, 15-4. Ernie Patterson, Vanc., beat Ken Crow, Vanc. 15-3, 15-5. Tom Meredith, Vanc., beat Bryan Forsythe, Vanc. 15-8, 15-5. Cats' New Punch Still Producing

Cougars Hit All Cylinders In Thumping Seattle 7-1

Seattle 1, Cougars 7

By ERNIE FEDORUK

It's not as if they're going away for good, but Victoria Cougars entertained at a "bon voyage" party Friday evening and the Western Hockey League tete-a-tete with Seattle Totems proved rather interesting to the local clique.

George Agar could hardly be considered a guest, but nobody enjoyed the affair more than the Cougar coach.

"That was," he announced, "only the second game at which I was able to relax early. When the score reached 5-1, I must admit I just sat back and enjoyed it."

When it wound up 7-1 in Victoria's favor, George was ecstatic.

These ulcer-resting moments are nice, and Agar should really pat himself on the back. There's more than one dangerous claw on the cat now.

That's some of Agar's doing and that's the point the Cougars seem to be driving home as they prepare for their final road trip to the Prairies.

The team was scheduled to leave for Winnipeg at noon. They'll open their eight-game jaunt Monday night against the Warriors. It could be a trip that makes or breaks the Cougars in their bid to nail down a playoff spot in the Western Hockey League.

Friday's timely victory over Seattle Totems kept Cougars six points up on Edmonton Flyers and the Warriors, both of whom also chalked up triumphs the same evening.

The Cougars did manage to gain on Spokane, moving to within six points of the fifth-place Comets and to within seven of the fourth-place Seattle squad.

But there are other elements emerging from Cougars' 20th victory of the season that must be considered. The first is the added proof—seven goals—that Agar appears to have made a wise move when he juggled his forward lines earlier this week. The other is morale. That item has never really been missing, but it appears to have reached a high peak at the right time.

Extra Power Starting to Come Out

All three lines clicked on all cylinders, and Agar feels certain he has acquired the greater balance he wanted. On the strength of Cougars' last two games, it would appear that he not only got his balance, but he also has greater power.

The Barrie Ross-Doug Macauley-Bill Saunders line spearheaded Friday's attack, each picking up three scoring points. Macauley, who has scored five points in his last two games, and Saunders each counted two goals apiece while Ross checked in with three assists.

Rookie Bert Fizzell came up with goals No. 16 and 17 while the other went to defenceman Wayne North.

Veteran Ed Stankiewicz pumped in Seattle's only goal, spoiling Marcel Pelletier's bid for a shutout late in the second period. Pelletier, although enjoying one of his easier nights of the season, made 24 stops but was steady in the early going and when it counted most.

The over-worked netminder was Seattle's Bev Bentley. He received little protection from an erratic defence but still managed to turn aside 32 shots. Cougars made the most of their best scoring opportunities, but the gluttings in the crowd of 2,552 might be inclined to suggest that Victoria's total—with any amount of luck—might have been higher.

They could be right. Saunders himself missed at least three other golden opportunities, including a shot that glanced off a goal post in the first period and two good breakaways in the last frame.

Defenceman Jim Hay also hit a post and Ross and the suffering Jim Moro also were unfortunate in not adding to the total.

Admittedly, Totems got a bad game out of their system and the Cougars added to the damage with some excellent fore-checking.

Cougars counted three of their goals while holding the odd-man advantage through Seattle penalties. Totems' lone goal came just as North stepped back on the ice from serving a minor for slashing.

The penalty total was a modest six minors, evenly distributed. So Cougars collected full-dividends on each of the Seattle penalties.

ICE CHIPS: Macauley, who scored the winner in Tuesday's overtime tussle against Winnipeg, now has 15 goals for the season and was the outstanding two-way performer on the ice. He set up Saunders for what was the night's prettiest goal, faking Totems' Gord Sinclair into the cheap seats before passing to Saunders. The latter then into some skate trouble early in the first period. Captain Hugh Currie turned in a strong performance to spearhead a steady Cougar defence.

Defenceman Don McLeod missed the game because of a knee injury but will accompany the team on its road trip. Agar had planned on calling up an amateur on a five-game trial basis, but McLeod's knee responded to treatment quicker than expected.

Although most of the goal scorers were fairly obvious, fans didn't get a chance to make a double-check. . . . the public address system in the Arena went on the blink shortly before game time. . . . Agar said he "had a feeling we were going to win a good one. . . . the boys have been knocking on the door too long" . . . Standup tactics of Cougar defencemen at the blue line did much to muzzle Seattle scoring ace Guyle Fielder. . . . The loss was only the second for Totems in eight games. . . . Saunders' second goal was his 20th of the year while North got his fifth. . . . North, incidentally, had never scored a goal in pro ranks until this season. . . . North, like Macauley and Gerry Goyer, also picked up five points in his last two outings.

Cats Cash in on Every Totem Penalty

At Edmonton, the Flyers—who share the cellar with Warriors—upset first-place Calgary Stampeders 4-2.

Defenceman Ron Thurlby, playing a forward position under emergency conditions, scored the winning goal for Warriors.

Injuries to forwards Howie Hughes and Gerry James left coach Bill Robinson's Warriors with only seven forwards most of the game. Hughes suffered an injured ankle in a game earlier this week while James had to retire after his first shift on the ice Friday when he suffered a five-stitch cut on his instep.

Ray Brunel led the Flyers with two goals and an assist while Bob Solinger and Don Poile scored singles.

... AFTER FOUR PLAYERS INJURED

Swedes Start Roasting Smokies for Rough Play

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI)—Swedish fans and newspapers were "hoping mad" with Canada's world championship hockey team today for alleged rough play in Friday's game with Sweden.

Some papers suggested that if any more Swedes are injured in games against Trail Smoke Eaters, there won't be enough left to field a team for the championships.

Sweden's national team has lost four players in two matches against the hard-playing Canadians, and the Stockholm press today feared there will be no Swedish players left for the world tournament in Switzerland next month.

After Friday's tough match in which Canada defeated Sweden 4-1, one of Sweden's best players, Lars Erik Lundwall, said his injury will keep him off the team for the rest of the season.

Sportswriters were wondering what will happen in Leskand and Gaevle where the Smoke Eaters are scheduled to play two matches. The Swedish selection committee Friday picked a "B" team for these matches.

The president of the Swedish ice hockey federation, Helge Berglund, today blamed the Czech referees for the fighting which broke out in the second period.

"The referees should have intervened in the first period to put an end to the rough play," he said.

Aside from criticism of their alleged tough tactics, the Canadian world cup team finally received good press today.

"We think the Smoke Eaters will give the Soviets a hard match for the world title," said the Svenska Dagbladet.

Look Who's Crying

Not all of that salt spray is from the ocean, Sam.

Some of it comes from the splash of tears falling in Vancouver.

The front office of the Western Hockey League Canucks is really moaning the blues today following the team's fifth straight defeat and the fourth on home ice.

The tailspinning defending champions dropped another home decision Friday. Winnipeg Warriors spotted the Canucks the first two goals and then came storming back to take a 3-2 decision.

Sweden this season has beaten Czechoslovakia, the Soviet Union and Canada in international matches. The Swedes blanked Canada 4-0 Thursday.

Gregory's Basket Jilts Bays Again; Vics Tie for Lead

Oak Bay High, always the bridesmaid to the defending champion Victoria High Totems in the past few years, missed a chance to drop the tag Friday night.

Hitting for the winning basket with only four seconds left in the game, Totems handed Oak Bay its first defeat of the Inter-High Senior Boys' Basketball League, 36-34.

The teams completed the regular schedule with identical 6-1, won-lost records.

GREGORY HERO
Ken Gregory, who has the happy habit of leading the Totems in point-getting, was the big man again by scoring 12 of his 14 points in the last half and hitting in the clutch for the winning basket.

The Bays led all the way until the final quarter. John Fraser, who has been a scoring standout for the Oak Bay squad all season, was the game's high point man as he dropped in 15.

At Mount View, the Hornets convincingly ended a five-year jinx by running over Belmont 63-44. The Hornets stung the Braves by pumping in 25 points in the last quarter.

View's Rick Skermer served notice to the opposition that he is a man to be reckoned with as the six-foot five-inch forward dropped in 24 points, 22 coming in the last half.

Recent letters to the B.C. Basketball Commission from Mount View paid-off as Sker-

ON THE ALLEYS Tourney Set For Juniors

With the present rapid growth in bowling popularity, it is inevitable that juniors should follow the footsteps of their parents to the alleys.

When a community first is introduced to bowling, the focus is nearly always on getting a good adult program going because of their larger numbers and greater financial resources.

However, there is no doubt that any operator who fails to include a strong junior program in his curriculum is missing a dollar-laden boat.

This is, I realize, a commercial vein, but very few local leagues seem to notice how the other half lives.

Since it is not a wholly spectator sport where vast numbers of customers pay to see a small group of gladiators play at it, but a pay-as-you-go game, it seems that commerce and recreation are indivisibly integrated.

This being so, it is possible to commend the efforts of the newly-formed Island Operators' Association to establish a junior tournament.

At a recent meeting the association, which has been discussed here before, voted to

WADSWORTH OUSTED

City Quartets Setting Pace

By DOUG PEDEN

Bill Wadsworth didn't want it that way, but the Duncan electrical contractor called the shot for his fate in the annual Victoria Curling Club bonspiel.

After winding up Thursday's play in the five-day 'spiel' with four successive victories, Wadsworth was in the running for the trophies in both primary events.

"Also," commented Bill, "we are at the stage where we could have a quick trip home."

That's the way it turned out. Wadsworth ran into a pair of short circuits and was on his way home Friday night. Pulling the switch on the Duncan crew skipped by Gary Merrett were Victoria shotmaker Gary Taylor and Jim Dewar of Chemainus.

DEWAR STARTS IT

Dewar started the trouble by clipping Wadsworth 7-6 in the "B" primary event and Taylor knocked the electronics man out of the bonspiel with a 9-6 victory in the "A" primary.

Victoria rinks were running on the inside track when curling got under way again at the Quadra Street rink this morning.

Out to the eights in both primary events and all with 60 records after posting two wins Friday were Bob McIntosh, Steve Hayhurst and Morley MacDonald.

Hayhurst got away to a fast start and tripped Bill Purdy's rink 9-5 and then clipped Fred Duncan of Duncan in the "A" primary to bump the Island zone champion out of the 'spiel.

PACK EARLY

McIntosh sent the Courtenay crew of Ralph Boyd home early by tripping Boyd in both primaries, winning by scores of 11-8 and 10-7.

MacDonald continued to spring surprises as he skipped his rink to an 8-6 triumph over A. Libby of Vancouver and squeezed past Gerry Walls by a 9-8 count.

Also out to the eights in the "A" primary with the unbeaten trio were Gordie Moore and Gar Taylor of Victoria and Jack Coates of Parksville. Two

Nod by Rozelle May Signal War

NEW YORK (CP) — Sum Etcheverry got what he wanted Friday — the chance to play in the National Football League — but for football itself, what has the fulfillment of Sam's wish wrought?

The complicated case of the strong-armed quarterback has already led to ill-feeling between the NFL and the over-seers of Canadian professional football. Whether it leads to open hostility remains to be seen.

The contract that Sam signed with St. Louis Cardinals was ratified by Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the NFL, despite claims on Etcheverry by Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Big Four.

Announcing his action, Rozelle rejected the protest of Sydney Halter, commissioner of football in Canada, saying that he hopes "the excellent relations which have existed between the NFL and the Canadian league... would not be affected in any way."

In Winnipeg, Halter said Rozelle's action constitutes "a complete repudiation of the

Susie Keeps Top Spot On Canadian Net List

Victoria's Susan Butt and Bob Bedard, Sherbrooke, Que., are again rated Canada's best tennis players.

Miss Butt, who included singles victories in the Blue Grey tournament at Montgomery, Ala., and in the Ontario and B.C. championships among her triumphs last year, topped the list for the second successive year according to the 1960 national rankings announced Friday.

Bedard was rated the best of Canadian male swingers for the sixth consecutive year as few significant changes were made in rankings for either

To Get This New ILLUSTRATED 132-Page "HANDBOOK of HEALTHFUL EATING"

STOP SUFFERING... START LIVING! This Quick Guide to Health-Through-Nutrition tells you how to make your meals build better health. Charts, photos, recipes, handy calorie counter.

Special Feature Articles Include:

This World-Famed Doctor Said: "OUR HEALTH IS MADE—OR UNMADE—AT THE TABLE"

When he was 91, Dr. John Harvey Kellogg (medical director of the Battle Creek Sanatorium) was still—the world's best known advocate of Healthful Eating and Biologic Living. Read the very interesting interview he gave to newsmen on that occasion—and also a 5-page summary on "DR. KELLOGG'S RULES FOR RIGHT EATING" on pages 28-34 of this Nutrition Guide.

HOW TO REDUCE—AND STAY REDUCED

7 "NO-Nonsense" Slimming Fundamentals

"Inside of every fat person there's a thin one trying frantically to get out," observed a diet specialist. And a humorist wrote—

I once was 'pushing 50'; but, As my meals well remind me, I am not pushing 50 now—I'm towing it behind me.

But to the 40 million fatties on this continent that extra blubber is no laughing matter. They know it's a real health hazard and beauty-killer. If you are one of them, the 7 "No-Nonsense Reducing Fundamentals, the Handy Calorie Counter, and Lose Weight Safely Diet on pages 104-112 may prove a godsend.

WHO ARE THE HEALTHIEST PEOPLE IN THE WORLD?

Noted Canadian writer, John Tobe, reveals the secrets of "THE HEALTHY HUNZAS" of Pakistan.

So much has been written and said about The Healthy Hunzas—as the only people known to be critically free from the "diseases of civilization" that John Tobe decided he had to see for himself.

Tobe is the only Canadian who made this hazardous journey to the Roof of the World. He returned in 1959 to write a book "HUNZA": Adventures in a Land of Paradise (just published) and also the short, intensely interesting, illustrated article for our Nutrition Guide.

WHICH MEAL IS BETTER... and WHY?

TESTED RECIPES FOR SUPERIOR NUTRITION

"HEALTH BEGINS IN THE KITCHEN"—and for this reason the health-conscious homemaker needs the Nutritional Yardsstick on pages 82-83 of this handbook for her guidance.

She will also be delighted with the "Rules for Meal Planning" by Agnes Toms, M.A. including Rules for Cooking, Food Preparation and Storage, and many recipes for Healthful Box Lunches.

OTHER HEALTHFUL RECIPES include: Whole Grain Cookies; Ways With Cheese; Zestful and Healthful Soups; Salads and Low-Fat Salad Dressings; Miscellaneous Recipes; Blender Recipes; An M.D.'s Natural Food Recipes, etc.

HERE'S WHY YOU NEED THIS QUICK GUIDE TO THE NEW SCIENCE OF HEALTHFUL EATING

It Tells You:

- How to Choose the Right Foods for Health.
- How to Avoid Destructive Diet Habits.
- How to Prevent "Hidden Hungers" for Vitamins, Minerals and Trace Elements.
- HOW TO REDUCE—Without "Starvation Diets."
- How to Become a Nutrition-Wise Cook.
- How to Distinguish a Mere "Food Faddist" from an intelligently "Nutrition Conscious" Person.
- How to "Make Old Age Wait" (Regenerative Eating).

SET SAIL FOR TROPICAL ISLES?

Beanie Bear, at right, is pulling up anchor for a journey to four tropical islands. How long will it take you to chart the course he'll follow in making his trip? Begin at small arrow pointing into the maze at bottom left. Visit islands in numerical order and return to starting point indicated by arrow at bottom. Try not to stray from channels shown.

CHARADE TEST

My FIRST is often a kind of carriage;
My SECOND oft results in marriage;
My WHOLE is useful, all allow,
Though kicked and trampled anyhow!

FARM PRICE RULING

A farmer paid $72 for a certain number of hens for his breeding flock. Had he been able to reduce the price another dollar each, he would have obtained six more hens for his money. Can you tell how many hens he bought and what was the cost of each?

When fellow office workers commissioned G. Howie Flubs to wire their sick boss a flower, no one dreamed he would take them literally. But he did.

Above you see Howie fashioning a replica of a potted flower from a wire coat hanger. Whether or not "wire succeeded is not known, but it is possible to reproduce the flower shown above in one continuous line. This line may touch and parallel itself but may not intersect. A solution is given elsewhere in the page.

Birds and crocodiles are the closest living relatives of the dinosaurs that ruled the earth about 130 million years ago, according to the National Geographic Magazine.

A TASTY GAME

Determining whether your friends have "good taste" is an interesting and often amusing party pastime. Arrange to have ready a number of different liquids, such as grape juice, grapefruit juice, beer, water, root beer. Place four or five of these in identical glasses in a row upon a table, and blindfold the person who is to take the test. Hand the glasses to him in turn, asking him to sip it without taking time to smell it, and identify the content. If he is given a tangy drink first, chances are he'll not have much success in identifying the others.

DOCTOR'S OATH?

These four letters (above) may appear meaningless at first glance, but they actually form a cryptic phrase of three words uttered by a doctor, who had been called out on a fruitless mission. How quickly can you decipher the words?

Answer: The last letter taken as a vowel suggests the phrase "nothing."

'New Frontier' Proposals Pondered

By JACK LEFLER
NEW YORK (AP) — Business this week pondered President Kennedy's "new frontier" proposals to spur the lagging economy, and wondered what is over the horizon.

Some of the president's program came in direct orders which will have quick effect. Other parts will depend upon congressional action.

Kennedy told Congress the economy is in a short-term recession.

He urged increased social security payments; emergency unemployment benefits; an increase in the minimum wage; easier housing credit; lower long-term interest rates and swifter federal and local government spending.

Some business leaders felt that the economy already was priming to lift itself by its bootstraps from the mire in which it is struggling.

Nevertheless, the Kennedy program was generally viewed as providing vital prospective stimulating shots in the economic arm.

INDICATES APPROVAL

The stock market gave every indication of approval for the government help. It racked up some sharp gains in a bullish atmosphere amid very heavy trading.

However, business at the present remained in the doldrums.

Layoffs, low production and slow sales plagued the automobile industry. Steel output declined and, despite a pickup in some types of orders, there was little anticipation of marked improvement for another month.

Auto production totalled an estimated 102,000 units this week, up 6.9 per cent from last week, but down 37.4 per cent from a year ago.

Food and Chrysler closed six assembly plants, and car lines at two others for this week, making 15,000 persons idle.

American Motors will shut down operations at Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis., next week because of "a general decline in the automobile industry."

The cutback in car production upset the steel industry's hopes for a pickup. Production of steel last week declined 2.2 per cent to 1,466,000 tons from the previous week.

A severe cold wave compounded the economic troubles. It kept customers away from the stores and retail trade dropped 4 to 8 per cent below a year ago.

Noranda Mine Production This Year

Iron ore production at the Noranda mine near Kennedy Lake on Vancouver Island is "almost a certainty" this year, says Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan.

He said in the legislature that recent assessments indicate several million tons of iron ore in the area.

This project, together with those of Craigmont mines in the Highland Valley and Ventures and Granby in the Queen Charlottes will provide 1,200 jobs on a long-term basis, he said, in the throne speech debate.

Mineral production for the province in 1961 should surpass $200,000,000—a new record—he predicted. (It was $174,000,000 last year.)

The new iron ore mines drew a jibe from the CFC: "All for export?"

"Currently all B.C. produced iron ore is exported to Japan," "Unfortunately," replied Mr. Kiernan. "There is no way of finding a market. Either it is mined for export or not mined at all."

National Campaign On Job Training

OTTAWA (CP) — A drastic change in industry which demands better-trained workers and shuts out the unskilled is going to be brought home to Canadians in a national campaign May 29-June 4.

Federal and provincial groups interested in job training will meet to lay plans for the campaign. Canada's part in Commonwealth Technical Training Week.

Theme of the special week, suggested by the Duke of Edinburgh last year, is "training today for tomorrow."

One-Day Layoff By Canadian GM

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — General Motors of Canada will have a one-day layoff of its passenger car 5,000 employees here this month, a spokesman said today.

The official said the purpose of the one-day shutdown is to bring production into line with unsold car inventories.

Chrysler already has instituted a short work week at two of its three Windsor plants.

MEDICAL PERSONNEL at Royal Jubilee Hospital study facilities of advance treatment centre now on display. It is first of its kind to be shown in its entirety in Canada. Centre is made up of $7,000-worth of medical supplies — antibiotics, stretchers, surgical instruments, drugs and other items. Unit will be one of 240 similar centres to be established in B.C. by Civil Defence Emergency Health Service. They are part of federal government planning to meet national emergencies which would tax capacities of existing hospitals.

ROY THOMSON HAS COME LONG WAY

Salesman of Radio Sets To Newspaper Colossus

BY NORMAN CRIBBENS
Roy Thomson — stormy centre of the current newspaper war in Britain — has come a long way since he trudged around northern Ontario selling radio sets.

People wouldn't buy his radio sets because they said radio from Toronto was too poor. Mr. Thomson's cure for this was to start a radio station of his own!

He opened a one-room studio in a movie theatre at Timmins and gave the theatre free publicity on the air instead of paying rent.

He sold radio space to local firms, did his own announcing and played dance records borrowed from a music store.

Soon all Timmins was jumping to Thomson's jazz!

A year later, with the profits earned from his one-man radio station, Mr. Thomson bought a broken-down weekly paper in Timmins and turned it into a daily.

BUILT UP CHAIN

He went on to buy small papers all across Canada until he had a chain of 17 stretching from Pacific to Atlantic. His most westerly property is the Nanaimo Free Press.

Then he went to Britain, started a new weekly called "Canada Review" in 1953 and the following year acquired the staid Scottish daily The Scotsman, published in Edinburgh.

Since then, Mr. Thomson has added many top dailies to his newspaper empire; sponsored a group of commercial TV stations in Scotland and acquired a chain of bowling alleys.

He divides his time between a spacious office in The Scotsman building in Edinburgh and The Sunday Times in London, with occasional trips back to his native Toronto.

Mr. Thomson is traditionally famous for his indifference to journalism and his single-minded devotion to revenues from advertising. But, after he acquired The Sunday Times he declared himself in favor of "quality journalism."

He said he would maintain the standards of The Sunday Times and continue to pay high salaries for top writers.

As an employer, Mr. Thomson was to be regarded as generally parsimonious, yet he was capable of unexpected bursts of generosity; once paid for one of his office boys to go to college and another time wiped off an employee's debt.

As a man he was generally good-humored, approachable and without any sort of pretence. Didn't pretend to know much about fine writing, politics or art — and didn't pretend to be making the world safe for democracy.

His Canadian papers rarely adopted any definite political policy and Mr. Thomson was never heard to preach anything but "good, sound business."

He once said that he liked England because "it was more democratic than Canada."

In Canada, he pointed out, people twitted him about his modest upbringing as the son of a barber.

"Over here," he said, "I am treated most cordially by Lords, Knights, and even members of the Royal family."

WEEK ON MARKETS

Industrials, Oils Hold Spotlight

By JOHN PICTON

Canadian Press Staff Writer
The Toronto stock market moved ahead slowly but firmly this week to recover some of the losses suffered in last week's correction.

Industrials gained more than three index points, while western oils got a fillip from the federal government's bid to increase Canadian oil production.

Gold, however, moved lower following President Kennedy's stand on retaining the present price.

This, following former president Eisenhower's recent ban on Americans holding bullion or gold securities abroad, was too much for traders and the section dropped more than five points. Base metals attracted little attention.

Western oils and associated industrial stocks became the stars on the market following the announcement of the government's new policy.

PRICES INCREASED
In two days of active trading, prices climbed in the 75-cent to $2 range.

Steels were lower, following Algoma and Stelco, both of which reported lower earnings in 1960.

Among base metals, nickel and asbestos stocks were slightly stronger, while other sections saw little change.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Vending Industry Growth Zooms

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Judging from the market reaction, investors don't seem to have been much enthused over the A. V. Roe Canada Ltd. announcement that it is going into the vending machine business.

It is true that Avro is a little late in entering the field, nevertheless the phenomenal growth of this industry in U.S. will more than likely be followed by similar growth in Canada.

Some of the newer developments in vending machines are quite startling.

When most people think of vending machines they have in mind the relatively simple machines which sell candy, cigarettes and hot or cold drinks.

But the industry in the U.S. and to some extent in Canada has gone much farther than that concept, and some very complex "canteen" machines are now being produced and installed.

The magazine Factory predicts that in 1961 there will be a headlong rush toward mechanized cafeterias: "Mechanization of plant cafeterias with coin-operated vending machines is today's fastest-growing industrial trend."

The thing that has sparked the vending machine industry has been the development of means of handling hot canned foods. Importance of this phase of development can be seen in the intense competition between the steel and aluminum industries for production of the most acceptable containers for vending machine foods.

While steel can manufacturers have come up with new lightweight cans, and have helped develop a new opener, the aluminum people have produced an aluminum can with a pull-tab opener.

In 1955 there were but 800 hot food vending machines in operation in the U.S. A year later the number had increased to 6,800 and by last year there were 27,000 of these machines on location. This rapid rate of increase is expected to continue for some years.

It may be difficult to visualize the growth of the vending machine industry to any extent in relatively non-industrial areas such as Victoria, but the market for them in heavily-populated industrial areas is easy to see.

The products which Avro will manufacture in Canada are those of the Automatic Canteen Company of America, in Chicago, and there is no doubt as to this company's leadership in the industry.

Growers Wine Co. Ltd. has high hopes for a new hybrid grape, the "Himrod," which it has arranged to have cultivated by Okanagan growers.

Himrod was selected after tests of some 50 hybrid varieties now used by Growers.

The 50 acres contracted for in the Okanagan will yield about 250 tons of grapes each harvest starting in four years and will enable Growers to cut back on its imports of expensive California grapes.

Rumors are flying that Fargo Oils Ltd. has hit a big oil producer in the Pettit River field of northeastern B.C.

One story has it that the well will be among the top two or three largest wells in Canada—but Fargo so far has had no comment on the story.

Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. Ltd. has contracted for sale of 300,000 tons of coal to the Japanese steel industry.

In effect this is a year's extension, to March 31, 1962, of the present contract which runs out at the end of this March.

SAFE DRIVER HAS CIGARET, BARE FEET

LONDON (CP)—A London surgeon suggests that motorists should drive with bare feet to keep from falling asleep at the wheel.

In a letter to the British Medical Journal, Dr. Alfred B. Alexander says falling asleep is the major cause of motor accidents.

In addition to the bare-foot remedy to stay awake, Dr. Alexander suggests drivers should smoke and should rub eau de cologne on their foreheads.

He warned that alcohol induces sleep under conditions of warmth and insufficient ventilation, most common during winter nights.

LAMONT PROBE

'Not Safe' For Bus To Cross

EDMONTON (CP)—A coroner's jury Friday found that 17 high school students died as a result of shock due to multiple injuries after school bus driver Frank Budney of Redwater, Alta., "proceeded on to the railway crossing just east of Lamont, Alta., when it was not safe to do so," about 8.55 a.m. Nov. 29.

The bus was ripped apart by a CNR freight train which the jury found was travelling at a speed "beyond what we consider safe" at the unprotected level crossing, 45 miles northeast of Edmonton. Provincial coroner Dr. M. M. Cantor said the train was travelling at close to 54 miles an hour just before it started to brake.

The jury also found "from the somewhat conflicting evidence adduced at the hearing," which opened Wednesday, that Budney "came to a stop or near stop" before the collision which sent him and 23 of the students to hospital.

The verdict said Budney did not have a proper licence.

Premier E. C. Manning, in his capacity as attorney-general of Alberta, said after the verdict was read that his department had not decided whether it will take any action.

Power Saws Hike Hazard

OTTAWA (CP)—The switch from muscles to motors in Canadian logging operations has created a new forest fire hazard which must be brought under control.

Canada's top experts on forest fire control said here today that the new danger results from the virtual disappearance of hand-operated saws in forest operations and the increasing use of power saws driven by gasoline motors.

PRESENT BUILDING 'BURSTING AT SEAMS'

Indian Arts Leader Asks New B.C. Museum

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Dr. A. N. Beattie, president of the Indian Arts and Welfare Society, today called for the immediate construction of a new provincial museum.

The appeal is sparked by the purchase last week of one of the most valuable collections of Pacific Northwest arts and crafts.

The treasure bought by the government from a Victoria estate is valued by some experts at more than $300,000. The new collection, together with thousands of relics and specimens acquired by the museum over a period of years, is expected to aggravate the problem of care and storage.

Hidden in Attics

The museum is bursting at the seams and works of art and scientific specimens that could be displayed for benefit of all British Columbians are hidden away in dusty attics and unused rooms of the Legislative Buildings.

Mr. Beattie said the society feels there is a need now more than ever for a new museum to safeguard B.C. historical treasures from damage and fire.

He is supported by Prof. C. S. Burchill, history and economics professor at Royal Roads and an executive member of the society.

World's Best

"A new museum is not only needed to house our historical and scientific collections, but to make it available to students and tourists," he said. "It should be adequately staffed."

He added the new collections provides the museum with the world's finest collections of Indian arts and crafts of the Pacific Northwest.

(Mrs. Lois Haggen, CCF—Grand Forks-Greenwood, said in the Legislature Friday that Victoria should celebrate its centennial in 1962 with a proper showcase for the provincial archives and museum.)

Collection was acquired from the estate of the late W. A. Newcombe, who with his father Dr. C. F. Newcombe, spent years collecting throughout the province, Washington and Oregon.

Sought by Others

It is considered the finest collection of its kind and museums and art galleries in Canada, the United States and Europe sought it.

The collection includes about 45 delicately carved Kwakiutl and Haida silver bracelets, a rare Salish blanket (which is no longer made by the tribe), beautifully carved wooden chests and native baskets representing all B.C. tribes.

A native collection of argillite carvings includes a chest which experts estimate at a value of $30,000.

There are also some Indian "bone soul catchers" inlaid with abalone shells. These are extremely rare and are now regarded as works of art.

Centuries Old

It includes hundreds of books, "periodicals," paintings

by Emily Carr, historical photographs, old maps and scientific papers and documents on natural sciences.

A valuable item is a Spanish atlas of the voyage of the Sutil and Mexicana in the late 18th century. Some of the archaeological relics are at least 2,000 years old.

Dr. Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, said the collection includes the original plates and prints of R. Maynard, a photographer who took pictures in British Columbia in the late Nineties.

Baffled Police Renew Appeals To Hit-Runner

Chief Expresses 'Pity, Sympathy'

City police, still without a lead in the hit-run death of a retired Victoria man Wednesday, today renewed their appeal asking the driver to give himself up.

Chief John Blackstock reiterated a direct challenge made previously to the driver of the auto in collision with 82-year-old Hubert H. Hollier, 2336 Lee, who was found with multiple injuries in a gutter on Fort near Trent.

The pedestrian was pronounced dead on arrival at Royal Jubilee Hospital, two blocks away.

An inquest will be held by coroner Dr. J. H. Moore at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Hayward's funeral home.

Results of an autopsy, disclosing the extent of injury, will be given then.

WITNESSES WANTED

The chief asks any citizen with knowledge of the accident, of any recently-damaged car or truck, or of any unusual, sudden disuse of a vehicle, to call police immediately, even anonymously.

"Up to this time police have been unable to find out how this accident occurred or the identity of the driver," the chief said.

To the driver of the hit-run vehicle he says:

"In the name of decency, and for the relief of your conscience, I ask that you come forward now."

"You have my sympathy—you have my pity."

"Your worry, remorse and fear will not ease up, it will get worse."

"You are not a criminal. This incident could have happened to anyone. It was an accident," the chief said.

Sharp Teeth In New Laws On Prejudice

Fines up to $100 will be imposed on anyone found guilty of discrimination—race, religion or color—under new legislation introduced Friday by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

The new law will apply "in any place to which the public is admitted."

It is called the Public Accommodation Practices Act. It also prohibits newspapers, radio, television from displaying discriminatory material.

FREE SPEECH SAFE
But this rider is added: "Nothing... shall be deemed to interfere with the free expression of opinions upon any subject or speech or in writing and does not confer any protection to or benefit upon enemy aliens."

The fining will be done by the Labor Relations Board, which will act as a sort of court in cases which draw complaints to officers of the Labor department.

The minister must be the final authority for carrying out orders of the LRB, which has power as commissioner under the Public Inquiries Act.

The minister may also obtain injunctions from the B.C. Supreme Court.

The new act says: "No person shall deny to any person or class of persons the accommodation, services, or facilities available to the public in any place to which the public is customarily admitted because of the race, religion, color, nationality, ancestry, or place of origin of such person or class of persons."

CCF MOVE DROPPED
At the last session of the House, CCF member Arthur Turner attempted to introduce a bill along similar lines, but it was withdrawn after the Attorney-General said the government would bring in a similar bill at the following session.

In 1956 the government brought in an act to prevent discrimination in trade union membership by reason of race, religion or color.

It'll Be Warm, Generally Wet This Weekend
Victoria residents will have to take the mild with the bitter this weekend.

Temperatures will be unseasonably warm, ranging from a low of 13 to a high of 52, but precipitation will be right in season.

Cloudy skies, heavy overcast, rain pausing briefly to night and resuming Sunday, is the official forecast.

Winds will be normal, ranging from 15 to 25 miles per hour.

TRAFFIC FINES
In Oak Bay police court on Friday:

Sonia Rose, 3165 Weld; Donald Straith, 3983 Locarno; and Siegfried Margardt, 3921 Smugglers Cove, $25 each; Norbert Galvez, 2650 Arbutus, $20; Geoffrey Unwin Potter, 1845 Taylor, $15, for speeding over 30.

Evelyn Carr, 2925 Lansdowne, $15 for passing an other vehicle stopped at a pedestrian crosswalk.

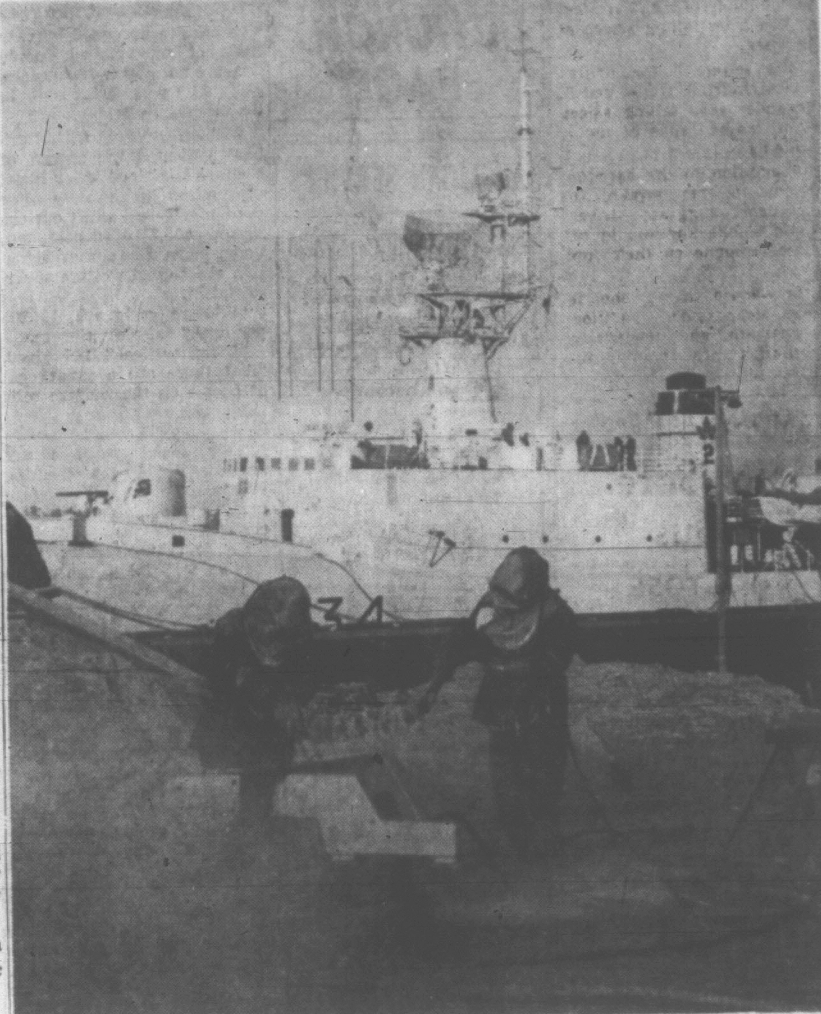

SAVE CHILDREN FUND NEEDS FOOD FOR CONGO
The B.C. branch of the Commonwealth organization, Save the Children Fund, has been asked to help in feeding the thousands of starving children in the Congo.

Donations may be sent to the local representative, Mrs. W. W. McGill, 3441 Mayfair Drive. Receipts will be issued for income tax purposes.

Money will be sent to the United Kingdom ambassador in Leopoldville and food will be purchased and distributed through the United Nations.

Purchases will be made from countries surrounding the Congo to save shipping time and overcome duty problems.

Kasai province is the hardest hit and children are dying daily. Crops have not been planted due to tribal warfare.

THAT'S AN ORDER, BLAST IT!

In the old navy, the rule was: If it moves, salute it; if it doesn't, paint it. In the new navy the saying is: If you can't salute it, blast it, as demonstrated by two outer-space-type workmen at HMC Dockyard. Behind sandblasters is HMCS Assiniboine, anti-submarine destroyer.

FORMER STUDENT GIVES TIP

'College Prank,' Police Say, But Silver Still Missing

City police are "fairly certain" the daylight theft of a $900 70-pound silver ingot from a Legislative Buildings display Thursday is a Victoria College student prank.

They said today they suspected a college boy stung from the beginning, but until the investigation is cleared up they do not discount the theft may have been for gain.

So far the silver bar, taken from a Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. display in an entrance corridor at about 11:10 a.m., is still missing.

An anonymous informant, a former student at the university—supported the police theory.

It was a student-prank done "just for laughs," he told the Times today.

"It (the silver bar) won't be cut up and sold, I can assure you of that," the tipster said.

EASILY SOLD

On the other hand, if the theft was committed by someone who hoped to gain by it, police say there would be no difficulty in disposing of the silver, even here in the city, but at a much-reduced "bootleg" price.

Meanwhile, Victoria College student council vice-president Karl Wylie said he doubted that students are implicated in the theft, even though two similar stunts over the past few years — hijacking of a cannon from Royal Roads and a bust of Queen Elizabeth from city hall — were traced to the university.

He said there is not the same atmosphere among the student body as on the previous occasions, a sort of telegraphic knowledge or "togetherness."

"Generally, rumors and comments around the campus have been very much less than in similar incidents in the past, such as the Queen's bust," the spokesman said.

TRIED ONCE BEFORE

"Certainly it is possible that it could be students, but it is also the case that a senior government official attempted to relieve the display of the ingot on an earlier occasion."

(He was stopped at the door by a security guard.)

"What annoys me," Wylie said, "is that the public as a whole assumes that college students are a bunch of pranksters and thieves."

"We don't brand the B.C. government as a bunch of pranksters and thieves, do we?"

"If it is a prank, then it is a rather senseless one because it serves no purpose, except to amuse someone," he said.

He pointed out that in the previous college pranks the aims were publicity of a college event and the dilemma of city council in having no permanent place for the bust.

A note turned over to police Friday after it was found behind a buffalo head in the university cafeteria, apparently is a separate prank.

FERRY MISSES ROUND TRIP AS ENGINE GIVES TROUBLE

The B.C. government ferry Mv. Tsawwassen developed engine trouble this morning and missed one round trip between the mainland and Swartz Bay.

The 7 a.m. sailing from Tsawwassen and the 9 a.m. from Swartz Bay were both cancelled out.

Regular departures were made from the Island at 7 a.m. and 11 a.m. by Mv. Sidney, the sister ship.

In addition to a long lineup of cars waiting for the Sidney after the 9 o'clock sailing was cancelled were two Vancouver Island Coach Lines buses.

One was the regular through service from downtown Victoria to downtown Vancouver, the other a chartered bus taking the Shawnigan Lake School rugby team for a game on the mainland.

Churchmen Request B.C. Welfare Probe

A small part of the United Church of Canada today called on the provincial government to investigate British Columbia's social welfare services.

Three greater Vancouver presbyteries—Vancouver Burrard, Vancouver South and Westminister—decided to appeal to the government following petitions distributed in 35 churches.

To date, 2,139 signatures have been gathered on the petitions which state: "We, the undersigned, members and adherents of the United Church of Canada, are deeply concerned by the sharp-outspoken criticisms of British Columbia's welfare services by responsible leaders in the field and by the persistent reports of the inadequacies of these services."

"We therefore respectfully petition the government... to arrange for a complete investigation of the province's social welfare structure by an impartial and competent body."

AMBITIOUS MUSICAL PROJECT

Folk Opera for College

By LES MILLIN

Times College Correspondent

"Down In the Valley," an American folk opera by Kurt Weill, will be produced by Victoria College during the third week in February.

A new venture for the college students, it will have a cast of over 100 under the direction of Dr. Chester Lambertson of the college's English department.

The production will be staged in the S. J. Willis Junior High School auditorium Feb. 16, 17 and 18.

Starring are soloists Irene Harris, Ken

Oliphant, Bill Ritchie and Robin Estlin, as well as a troupe of dancers, and a chorus of 80 members of the Victoria College choir.

Choreography is being arranged by Vivian Briggs, and student Bud White is assisting in the direction of the production. It will be accompanied by pianists Larry Devlin and Sharon Duggan.

Since the opera will take less than an hour to present, the evening's program is to be balanced with other musical offerings by students, including instrumental numbers, ballet and vocal selections by the college Men's Choir.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A three-quarter-ton army truck stolen sometime between Monday and Friday from a compound at Bay Street Armoury was discovered Friday evening in a rocky, brush and tree-covered field off Acton Street.

The canvas-backed truck bearing insignia of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) had been abandoned opposite 1234 Acton, where the occupant called police to report the vehicle, previously noticed by children of the neighborhood.

Photographic gear valued at $100 was stolen Friday night from a car parked in Empress Hotel parking lot by owner William Boucher, 735 Pandora.

Boucher made the report at 10:30 p.m. He said the equipment was carried in a small plastic bag.

Plans for a "Kid Karnival" to be held in March will be discussed at a general meeting of Gordon Head Elementary School PTA in the school Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Fownhope Club will hold a social tonight at 18 Wellington Avenue with square dancing and refreshments. Caller will be Mrs. N. Pike.

For the next social, members will attend the Feb. 18 supper dance at the Empress Hotel.

ASK THE TIMES

Q Will you please give me the hour, date and month that the rule of the road was changed from left to right hand drive in B.C.? R. R. B.

A. The ruling came into effect in two parts. For Vancouver Island and the Fraser Valley area it was effective at midnight, Dec. 31, 1921. From midnight, July 15, 1920, the left hand drive had been law in B.C.'s interior and the northern portion of the province.

Q. What is India's population density? P. S.

A. About 285 persons per square mile.

Speaker at a meeting of Victoria branch, British-Israel World Federation, at 8 p.m. Monday in the Newstead Hall will be E. W. Abraham.

His topic will be, "Who Wrote the Bible, and When?"

Oak Bay court of revision, to hear assessment appeals, will sit at 10 a.m. Monday in the municipal hall.

Appeals are chiefly against increased land assessments this year.

The court will consist of John G. McIntosh, J. W. Casey and V. L. Flury.

The 89th Kinsmen Squadron Air Cadettes will hold a home cooking sale next Friday at 5:30 p.m. at the Safeway store, Tillikum.

The girls are endeavoring to raise funds for their new style uniform hats. They are also planning a coat-hanger drive on March 25 for the same cause.

Members of the Baha'i Faith from throughout Vancouver Island and from mainland points meet this weekend in Nanaimo's Malaspina Hotel for a conference sponsored by the Baha'i regional teaching committee.

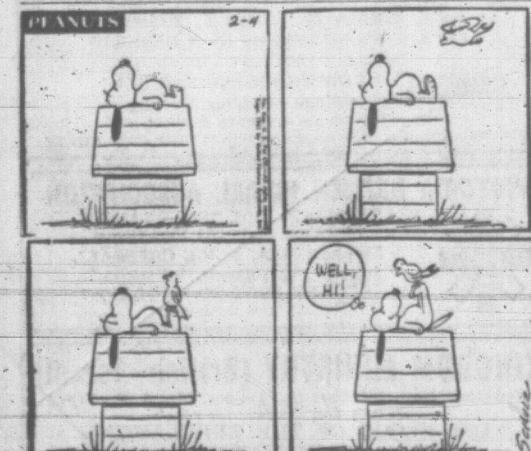

About 30 adherents are expected to attend.

There are about 25 members of the faith on the Island, 15 in Victoria.

Merchants and businessmen are alerted by police to watch for people who try to cash any Bank of Montreal cheques in the name Employees' Liability Insurance Co.

Sixty-four blank cheques were stolen this week from a Vancouver office and so far five have been turned over to city police and one to Saanich police.

It is believed the person responsible for cashing them may still be in this area or elsewhere on Vancouver Island.

U.K. PRELATE URGES INTER-CHURCH VISITS

YORK, England (UPI) — Britain's next Anglican primate, Archbishop Michael Ramsey of York, has urged priests of all Christian denominations to pay "courtesy calls" on each other.

In his monthly diocesan letter, Ramsey, who has been named to succeed Dr. Geoffrey Fisher as Archbishop of Canterbury next April, said Fisher's historic call on Pope John XXIII in the Vatican last month suggested to many people in different parts of the world that there was room for other "courtesy calls" never made before.

He suggested: "The vicar on the Roman priest, the Roman priest on the vicar, either of them on some ministers never visited before unless he himself took the initiative."

Ramsey said a thousand courtesy calls could add up to a volume of friendship, respect and Christian concern.

'A FARTHING AND 3 BUTTONS'

Remarks That Bore Patient Ministers

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks ministers get tired of hearing:

"That was a wonderful sermon, Dr. Spire. But wasn't it the same one you preached last year?"

"My husband sends his regards. Unfortunately, he couldn't attend services this morning. He had a golf game he simply couldn't get out of."

"The collection came to $38.50, a British farthing—and three buttons."

"Why is it ministers are always asking for money, money, money? Don't they ever think of anything else?"

"If this church was run on sound business principles, there wouldn't be any deficit."

"Instead of preaching so much against juvenile delinquency, why doesn't he do something about his own kid? He's about the wildest boy in town."

"He's such a nice man. I wonder why he never became a bishop?"

"Wake up, John. He's finished his sermon."

"Sorry, sir, we no longer have a minister's discount. We abolished it several years ago."

"Sure, I know he's against sin, but that isn't enough. What I want to know is, what's he for?"

"The church finance committee wanted to increase your salary, Dr. Spire, but decided the remaining funds should be spent on repainting the recreation centre."

"What does he want to build a new church for, anyway? This church was good enough for my great-grandfather. It ought to be good enough for him."

"Frankly, sir, some members of the congregation think you had better leave the town's social problems to the politicians."

"Why is he so dead set against bingo? If we got a bingo game going, we could afford to roof the church in gold-leaf."

FIRST UNITED this Sunday on its 99th birthday will have Dr. Martin L. Gossin as guest preacher at all services. Nationally-known in the U.S. as a theologian, he is minister at Plymouth, Congregational Church, Seattle.

First United Starts Drive For $110,000

A campaign to raise $110,000 for three years starting this year will be undertaken by First United Church.

The recent annual report listed an income of $85,000, but more funds are needed to meet church obligations.

An international fund-raising organization will be hired to do the job.

The campaign will start in March.

Immortality Belief Unitarian Subject

An evaluation of various beliefs concerning immortality will be presented the Unitarian Fellowship of Victoria, Sunday, by H. V. O'Reilly, a Fellowship member who has made a study of the concept.

He will speak at 8 p.m. in the Mount Tolmie Social Club hall, Richmond and Cedar Hill Cross Road.

Church Education in Schools Rallying Cry for Summit Meet

TORONTO (CP)—All of Canada's churches must hold a "summit meeting" of the fundamental aims of education, and such a meeting would succeed, Dr. Herbert Pottle, secretary of the United Church board of information, writes in the United Church Observer.

He says critics of religious instruction in schools are making "an assault on the foundations of Canadian education itself."

The critics "parade as champions of religious freedom and in doing so they use the language of the Christian so cleverly as to deceive the very clergy." But they were "compelling more and more of us to ask probing questions about the quality of Canadian education."

The real trouble, he says, is that Canadians "have no sense of compelling purpose for our schools that can inspire the nation."

"This critical state of Canadian education," he continues, "must obviously become the concern of all the churches."

"In fact, there are significant signs in Canada at the moment that an inter-faith dialogue on the fundamental aims of education—to include Protestants, Roman Catholics and Jews—would find support from many quarters."

"Indeed, its success is largely guaranteed in advance because in matters of basic education the things the communions (churches) hold in common are more important than those that keep them apart."

"The fact is that, even without a violent wrenching of the constitution, education can be made a national concern. A precedent already has been set by the social services which in the constitution are also the responsibility of the provinces."

The "real breakthrough," Dr. Pottle adds, must follow when the federal and provincial governments meet "in a great debate on the ends of education."

"We could use several more (sidesmen)," he states, "any men, especially younger men." Names may be given to the chief sidesman, W. A. Wigley, or to church wardens.

CATHEDRAL NEEDS SIDESMEN-USHERS
Christ Church Cathedral needs sidesmen to act as ushers and to collect offerings. They have another role, says Dean Brian Whitlow in his Sunday letter to parishioners: to impress the warmth of Christian fellowship on visitors, and help the infirm in the church with a little extra attention.

India to Host Church Leaders

GENEVA (Reuters) — More than 1,000 Christian leaders from all over the world will gather in New Delhi this year for one of the largest meetings of church leaders since the Second World War.

From Nov. 18 to Dec. 6 the Indian capital will be the scene of the third assembly of the World Council of Churches.

The assembly is the major policy-making body of the world organization whose 178 member churches represent an estimated 315,000,000 of the world's Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox Christians.

The assembly will be the first meeting of this size ever held in Asia by the Christian Churches. Previous assemblies were held at Evanston, Ill. in 1954 and at Amsterdam, where the World Council was constituted in 1948.

Taking part in the New Delhi assembly will be more than 1,000 church leaders, of whom some 625 will be the officially-appointed delegates of the World Council's member churches in more than 50 countries.

Offering a possible explanation why more men don't attend church services, Rev. John White, vicar of Ramsgate, wrote in his parish magazine: "My experience has taught me that most of them do not go to church because they are afraid of what people may say if they know they do go."

Women often insist on men putting on their best clothes, he says. More husbands would go to church if their wives encouraged them to go "as they were."

Men hate the idea of dressing up—"something which to my mind is quite unnecessary."

Officers Named At Emmanuel

Dr. David Parfitt and Howard Patch were elected to the board of deacons of Emmanuel Baptist Church for three-year terms at the recent annual meeting.

Elected to the board of deaconesses for similar terms were Mrs. Violet Taylor, Mrs. A. E. Pendray and Miss C. Meadows.

Named to the board of trustees were Gerald Abel and Norman Fittus.

Carved wood products found in stores at Waikiki and in Honolulu interest the many visitors to the Hawaiian Islands. Here, Mrs. Lorna Harris, left, and Mrs. Helen Dalgleish chose miniature carved wood pineapples to bring home. They have been vacationing in Hawaii for the past month and a half, and were guests at the Kalia Hotel in Waikiki.

Photo of the Coffeys and Metcalfe's by Hawaiian Village Hotels, all others by Hawaii Visitors Bureau.

The L. F. Lindholms of Victoria look seaward from the lookout at world-famed Diamond Head. Visitors to Hawaii watch eagerly for this landmark as they arrive by plane or ship and they look at "The Head" with nostalgia as they leave, vowing to return again. The Lindholms live on Tattersall Drive in Victoria. At Waikiki they stayed at the Niihau Apartment Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Coffey, 1783 Rockland Avenue, left, and Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Metcalfe, 3682 Locarno Drive, are currently vacationing at Waikiki Beach and staying at the Hawaiian Village Hotels. They are pictured aboard the Ale Ale Kai IV, one of the Village's fleet of pink catamarans that day after day take visitors out beyond the reefs to meet incoming cruise ships or to lazily sail along the beach toward Diamond Head. The two couples will visit other islands in the Hawaiian chain before returning to Victoria.

Foursome pictured beside an outrigger canoe at water's edge on Waikiki Beach include, from the left, Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Moyer and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Macfarlane. They are staying at the Niihau Apartment Hotel. Outrigger canoes, manned by experienced paddlers, take visitors to Hawaii out to the reefs to return in a swift rush on the crests of the breakers. It's a thrill that visitors to the Islands, old and young, enjoy and talk about long after they return to their homes far from the sunny isles.

Victoria's Season In Hawaiian Islands

Victorians who take vacations during the winter season here, invariably head, by boat or plane, for the Hawaiian Islands where the spice-scented trade winds blow softly, the golden sand is silky to the touch and the long rolling breakers dash over protecting reefs to smooth out in warm jade green waters along the shore. At Waikiki Beach and at many favorite spots in the outer islands of the Hawaiian chain, these Victorians away from home enjoy the scent of exotic flowers, the taste of fruits that grow so well in the southern hemisphere, the sound of native singing and the many other wonders that include star-studded nights and Hawaiian dances and music. Nearly everyone who visits Hawaii vows to return "someday" to savor the exotic wonders of the islands and the friendly welcome of the Hawaiian people that is nearly always given with presentation of a fragrant lei and a kiss.

SHOPPING GUIDE

This Versatile Tool Will Prove Useful in Many Ways

By PENNY SAVER

One of the handiest tools I've seen for a long time is a magnetized wall stud finder that's now selling in hardware section of city store at $1.25. Apart from detecting studs when hubby is doing a little home renovating, it will prove itself useful in a dozen different ways.

It will hold small nails in place, retrieve small objects that have become lodged in cracks or crevices and will even remove steel particles from a person's eye and so avoid adding to soreness by probing.

Looking very much like a ball-point pen, finders are about six inches in length and come in cases of either green, yellow, blue or red.

Do you have trouble reading the fine print in legal documents such as contracts and mortgage papers? If you do, you'd be smart to get neat little magnifier that's being imported from West Germany. These are shaped like a ruler and are about six inches in length.

Unlike conventional magnifying glasses these do not have to be held in the hand but are placed over printed matter. No focussing is necessary. They sell at $1.98.

There's nothing like changing into a pair of warm, comfortable slippers after spending busy hours shopping or walking in wind and rain. To add to comfort of your favorite pair, get sheepskin soles that are imported from England. All women's sizes sell for 75 cents a pair, while men's sizes are priced at 85 cents a pair.

If you're a hobbyist you'll find these soles perfect for making slippers for the family. Soles, although warm, are thin enough to allow a needle to penetrate easily.

THE BETTER HALF

By Bob Barnes

"Dig the snow out of your ears and I'll tell you what you did wrong."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Bet You Thought You Knew How to Breathe

Far too many folks breathe very shallowly, using only the top of their lungs, and when they do attempt to breathe more deeply they may do so incorrectly. One of the most usual tendencies is to lift the shoulders when taking in a deep breath. This is entirely incorrect.

The shoulders should be relaxed. Actually the diaphragm is used in breathing. It goes up and down like bellows.

One of the simplest of breathing exercises is to observe the way your diaphragm works when you breathe and then do a more extreme version of it. For instance, lie on the floor on your back. Bend the knees halfway, the soles resting on the floor, elbows bent and arms resting on the floor overhead in a relaxed manner. Try to touch your entire back to the floor. Now observe how your diaphragm works, moving up as you inhale and down as you exhale.

Breathe in this same rhythmic manner but increase the height of the diaphragm when you inhale and the depth it goes when you exhale. This alone is a good exercise.

Do the same thing except hold the air in your lungs after they are filled while you tap your chest with the palms of your hands. This forces the air into the little airpockets.

Remain in the same position but this time pant quite hard like a dog or a child who has been running vigorously. Pant a few times and rest and continue.

Try to think of the way you breathe many times during the day so that you can overcome shallow breathing. This will be a youthifying habit for you to cultivate. Naturally, it is impossible to breathe correctly if your posture is poor. Your lungs will be crowded.

DEAR ABBY

The Worrying Kind!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am in my early 30's. I am married to a woman the same age. She is very young looking. In fact, she is constantly asked for her birthday certificate when we go where drinks are served.

Now for my problem: My hair has suddenly started to turn gray and I am beginning to look more like her father than her husband.

My barber suggested I let him dye it. He said he could do it to look so natural no one would know it was dyed. In your opinion would this be deceptive and morally wrong?

GRAYING FAST. DEAR GRAYING: It is no more "deceptive" or "morally wrong" for a man to dye his hair than a woman. Although in my opinion, gray hair doesn't "age" a man—it only makes him look more attractive. But black, red, green or gray... be glad you have enough to drag a comb through.

DEAR ABBY: How can I get a boy to like me better than any other girl? I am 14 and he is 15.

WANTS A BOY-FRIEND.

DEAR WANTS: Keep your hair smelling nice. Be pleasant to his friends. Laugh as if you mean it, but don't giggle. Let him know you like him, but don't want to "own" him. Talk about things he likes to talk about. Be an attentive listener. Dress like a girl. Don't try to make him jealous. Respect his freedom. Let him lead when you're dating.

DEAR ABBY: Paul and I were married a year ago. He was divorced and had two sons who lived with their mother. I am expecting our first baby in May. Paul says if I have a boy he wants to name it Paul, Jr. I don't want to because he already has a son named after himself. His first-born, Paul, Jr., is now eight years old and lives two blocks from us. Am

I "stubborn, narrow-minded and small" for feeling this way?

PAUL'S SECOND WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: No, I think you're sensible. Tell Paul he had better come up with another name. Only one "Junior" to a Papa.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "DESPERATE AND UNDER AGE": Send me your name and address at once and I will send you the name and address of a free Home For Unwed Mothers immediately. This will be strictly between us.

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply from Abby, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby in care of this newspaper.

Infinitely chic are these chalk white beads marbledized in ecru that come in long and short necklaces. Beads may also be had in pink, orchid, black, or ecru combined with black, turquoise or coral. Especially effective with all the new hair-dos is the long gold chain earring terminating in a bead that matches the necklace.

Sunburst pendant of sparkling stones, hangs on a slim strand of pink and orange Austrian crystals. Worn separately, the jewel hooks to a belt or neckline, the necklace adjusts to a two-strand style. Perfectly matching earrings complete this stunning jewelry ensemble.

Give Her Exotic Jewellery As Your Valentine Token

By NONA DAMASKE

Feb. 14 is the most important day in the year if you have a very special romantic interest in your life. The Valentine card must be chosen with care and is most important. The gift, from boy to girl, should be something that may be treasured over the years. A lasting reminder of your affection.

Damaske

A beautiful piece of jewelry would be a most appropriate token from a Romeo to his Juliet.

ROMANTIC MOTIF

Much of this season's jewelry is designed in the romantic motif, flowers, curled leaves, feathers and hearts in gold or pastel hued gems.

Pin a jewelled rose or a delicately enameled camellia on your love. She can wear it over her heart as a talisman. The unadorned and understated clothes of the coming season are a perfect background for beautiful pins and the new longer necklaces.

New shapes in beads are exciting. Cubes, nuggets and triangles come in delectable shades of candy pink, lime, bone and mauve. Almost every piece of jewelry uses some gold.

GOLD IS 'IN'

It is a golden season. Even the chalk whites of summer are combined with gold. Gold combined with pearls is another round-the-clock look.

The sleeveless look of 1961 brings bracelets into bright focus. An arm without a bracelet is too bare to be attractive. Wear one or combine a dozen. Fashionwise, there is no limit to the number.

The dictionary says a Valentine is "an amatory or sentimental card, or the like, or gift sent by one person to another on Saint Valentine's Day."

So there you are. Be prepared to make that special someone's heart beat a little more quickly on Feb. 14.

Wedding in Chemainus Church This Morning

A 1960 graduate of St. Joseph's School of Nursing was married in St. Joseph's Catholic Church at Chemainus this morning, when Miss Jeanette Lucinda Beaubien exchanged vows with Derek Albert McNamara. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Beaubien of Chemainus and Mr. and Mrs. A. P. McNamara of McCreary, Man.

Spring flowers decorated the church for the ceremony at which Father Mudge officiated.

ORGANDY OVER SATIN

An exquisite gown of white organdy over satin was worn by the bride as she entered the church on the arm of her father. Bodice was fitted to the neckline with scalloped neckline and lily point sleeves. A full skirt billowed to floor length. Tiny pearls and sequins enhanced front of bodice while buttons trimmed back of gown from neck to hipline, ending in a large bow. A rhinestone tiara held the waist-length veil that was edged in white satin embroidery scallops. Red roses, white stephanotis and trailing ivy were in her bouquet.

Miss Shirley Waugh, Nanaimo, fellow member of the bride's graduating class, was maid of honor. She wore a waist-length gown of pale blue and white flecked nylon over taffeta. Junior bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy Beaubien, the bride's sister, chose pink and white flecked nylon over taffeta. Corinne and Judy Van Der Vliet, the bride's nieces, wore identical flower-girl dresses of pink and blue lace over cotton, handed with satin summerbuds.

All carried bouquets of pink roses and pink and white carnations, edged with satin leaves to complement their gowns.

Bill Beaubien, the bride's brother, was best man and ushers were Reg Beaubien and Roy Hugh, Nanaimo.

Spring flowers decorated the Legion Hall for the reception. Father Mudge proposed the toast to the bride. Mrs. Lois Gagnon sang "O Promise Me" and "You Will Never Walk Alone," while Hugh Husband sang "Because" and "Bless This House."

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to up-island points, the new Mrs. McNamara donned a pale green wool suit with fur trim. Accessories were in dark beige.

Newlyweds will make their new home in McCreary, Man.

Daffodils at Cathedral Altar For Fisher-Pogson Vows Today

Tall standards of daffodils and pussy willow flanked the altar in St. Andrew's Cathedral this morning when Miss Susan Lynn Pogson, daughter of Mrs. William Pogson, 953 Transit Road, and the late FO Pogson, was married to Robert Thomas Fisher, son of Mrs. Rosalie Fisher, 2632 Scott Street.

Father C. Janvrin officiated and J. Bottomley gave his niece in marriage.

WHITE SATIN

The bride chose a satin wedding gown with full-length skirt slightly en train. A large bow was placed at centre back. Boat-shaped neckline was trimmed with sequins and seed pearls. Her finger-tip veil filmed from a headdress of white roses and seed pearls. The cascade bouquet was of pink sweetheart roses.

Miss Catherine Bottomley and Miss Beverly Fisher were bridesmaids in silk dresses of American beauty light blue and peacock blue respectively. Their headdress of tinted chrysanthemums matched their bouquets.

Shelley Briggs, five-year-old niece of the groom, was flower girl in a white organza frock. She carried a dainty basket of spring flowers.

Mrs. Pogson chose a two-piece ensemble of Wedgewood blue brocade for her daughter's wedding. To this she added fuchsia-toned accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Midnight blue brocaded two-piece dress was choice of Mrs. Fisher, with a beige-colored spring hat and pink rosebuds en corsage.

Best man was Ronald Briggs while Clifford Moffat and Norman Healey were ushers.

Robert Coupar toasted the bride at a reception in Olde England Inn. Sweetheart roses decorated the wedding cake which centred the buffet table.

Couple left later for a Seattle honeymoon. The bride travelled in a light beige suit and moss green flowered hat with black patent shoes and bag. Her corsage was yellow rosebuds.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher will make their home on Admirals Road in Victoria.

CLOVELLY TERRACE
AN ADDRESS OF DISTINCTION FOR ONLY $12,950
There must be something "wrong" with this Clovelly Terrace for this price. Maybe this is in need of repair. Maybe you have to spend money on it after you have bought it. If this is what you are thinking, we have a very pleasant surprise for you. This property is in an absolutely top condition throughout. The only reason for the low price is that it is important to the owners to sell immediately. Call now for appointment to view.
DON BACON, EV-2425

WE WOULD LIKE A NEW HOME BUT...
We need a FULL DINING ROOM and it's impossible to find a new home in a moderate price bracket with a home on a good lot. We are tired of looking at these "L-shaped" living room deals where we have to give up the dining room furniture. Call now for appointment to view.

Bermuda Sets Tourist Record

HAMILTON, Bermuda—Bermuda's tourist trade reached a new height in 1960 when—for the first time in the colony's history—more than 150,000 visitors vacationed on the island.

The year-end figures showed a total of 151,406 visitors. This is an increase of almost 10,000 over the 1959 total.

The biggest single increase came in the cruise category. Cruise ship visitors numbered 40,119, an increase of almost 7,500 over the previous year.

Also contributing to last year's new high was the record month of July when a total of 19,201 visitors came to Bermuda.

As for 1961, a tourist spokesman said: "the outlook is good, despite some uncertainties."

OF ALL PLACES

Everything Looking Up With Cobbers

MELBOURNE, Australia—Everything is looking up, Down Under. 'Eavens, 'Arry, what other way is there to look?

Beer is the hour's h'ment and cricket the religion here in the Great Southern Continent. The blokes are called cobbers, piz is a form of politeness, and whyves are what break on the rockbound coast. For breakfast a bloke is liable to ask for crumbed brains, piz, or else lamb's fry, lamb chops and such.

"Better 'ave the steak," is what the clobber in the tail-coat told me the other morning at the Menzies Hotel. I'm a sport, sez I, and so were the cobbers in the kitchen. They decorated a sirloin with an egg on the side and a curl of ham on top, nestling against a Himalaya of fried potatoes. With a bowl of rolled oats as an appetizer the whole thing came to $1.25, and I'm not planning to eat again—until March.

Streetcars still rattle through the streets in Melbourne, capital of the state of Victoria. And plane trees shade the stone relics of the Victorian age that still line the streets. Here and there a great glass box has risen to stir the dust left over from another era. Ground was broken the other day for a giant new hotel, the Southern Cross, to be operated by Pan American, whose jets are thundering in to Sydney now, overnight from Honolulu.

Until a new glass house rises in which to incarcerate the tourists, the mellow hotels are muddling through. The Menzies with its enormous ceilings and its dripping chandeliers is making do until it can build its new addition. But the true inn of gentility is the Windsor, where the brass gleams and in summer, which is now, ladies in fussy straw hats gather in the restaurant to be tended by waitresses in starched white aprons, cuffs and caps. At the inquiry desk inquiries are answered by equeerries in black tunics and quiet airs. It's venerable all right, but the price is modern, $18 for two with breakfast.

Just out the front door of the polished Windsor stands Parliament House, an aging hall begun in the flush gold rush days of the 1850s, not thirty years after Melbourne began. The seat of the government moved to Canberra in 1927, and the House of Parliament has become the State House for the legislature of Victoria. In summer pretty government girls swirl out from its Victorian facades to sit on the grass of Carpentaria Square, shaded by the date palms and guarded by the bronze likeness of Gordon of Khartoum.

Among the prime regulations laid down by the state is the drinking of beer, which in Melbourne comes to a screeching halt at 6 p.m., at which point all loyal Aussies are expected to hie themselves off to home, pronounced hyme. So much beer is stored away aboard the Aussies in preparation for the curfew that even-tide drinking goes under the name of the Six o'Clock Swill.

In summer when the cops, pronounced constables, are decked out in white pith skimmers, sidewalk tables are laid out rather gingerly in staid old Melbourne, under the shade trees of Collins St. It's a new experiment, but the radical village fathers are willing to go along with it as long as tables are taken in each afternoon in advance of the 5 o'clock pedestrian rush as it moves towards the six o'clock swill.

Boats cruise along the Yarra in summer, a silty river that is much maligned by those Aussies who do not live in Melbourne. Sydney people are likely to say that it is so muddy it is the only river that runs upside down. Strollers amble across the lush grass of Fitzroy Gardens on their way to Captain Cook's Cottage, which was fetched all the way from Great Ayton in Yorkshire.

It was Captain Cook who first sighted and charted Australia, surveying the east coast in 1770. Cook also toured Tahiti and New Zealand before coming a cropper in Hawaii. Prints on view inside his English ancestral home show his death at the hands of natives at "Owhyhee" in 1779, long before "Owhyhiki" became a popular pad for peregrinators.

Anyone who doesn't think the world is upside down Down Under, ought to take the short land cruise along the Maroonah Highway to the animal sanctuary at Healesville.

They don't have zebras and lions on display at Healesville, but one can view such local impossibilities as wombats, dingoes, wallabies and wallaroos. Also kangaroos and koalas and emus, hero of the crossword puzzles. Dingoes are wild dogs brought over by the aborigines from Malaya eons ago. Wombats are sausage length types that look like the result of a romance between a dachshund and a porcupine. Wallabies and wallaroos are varieties of kangaroos, and the whole mess are marsupials, which means they carry junior in a pouch.

Koalas live in blue gum trees and sleep and eat and are cuddly. Stuffed dolls made of kangaroo and wallaby fur are on sale all over Australia. The bouncy kangaroo gives the skin off his back to make platypus dolls, for the platypus, found only in Eastern Australia, is carefully protected.

One of the world's only platypusaries is located at Healesville, and in the afternoon when the strange types are up and about, visitors can watch them swim in a glass tank. They have four legs, web feet, claws, a body that slithers on the ground like a reptile and a wirey tail like a beaver. They live on a rare diet of earthworms, steamed custard, crayfish, and tadpoles and have sharp spurs connected to poison glands. It is the only occurrence of venom in the whole mammal order except, of course, for disgruntled wives, pronounced woives.

'The Snake Has All the Lines'

By JEAN KERR
CHAPTER IX

We still have the first car we ever bought, shortly after the abdication of Edward VII. And, since it still goes forward and backward, we weren't even thinking of buying a new one.

Actually, we felt that our car had aged like a fine old wine. Perhaps it does tremble all over when the wheels hit a seam in the pavement, but no more than a high-spirited horse. And talk about faithfulness! Why, I could tell you stories about that little car...

But why do I torment myself, now that everything has changed? Last week we went to the movies and left the car in a parking lot. I gave the man 35 cents and was waiting for a stub when he said quietly, "Lady, you don't need a ticket—I can remember this one."

Realization Dawned

At first I thought he was referring to the sand pails and the bathing suits which could be seen through the snow on the back window ledge. But it came to me later (a great many things came to me later on account of the movie, which was about this teen-ager who was misunderstood by everybody, especially me) that our venerable, trusty sedan was a source of merriment to the entire staff of Maple Street Parking.

That young man was implying—implying nothing, he was as much as said—that it was an antique, an eyesore, and a menace to the orderly progress of traffic on the Post Road. Isn't it strange that so often an outsider will be the first to notice that a loved one is failing?

No Towel Racks?

So, we're in the market for a new car. We've looked at some and they certainly are beautiful—longer, lower, faster, richer, milder. But where, I ask you, are those little features one looks for in a family car?

I know they've been working day and night in Detroit achieving such wonders as power steering, which will enable you to get out of a tight parking place without so much as bending your elbows—in the unlikely event that you are able to find a tight parking place.

I've heard about pushbutton driving and air conditioning and I say, Henry Ford, cheers, General Motors, but what I want is a towel rack in the back seat. And if the children are going to insist on chocolate frozen custard it might be safer to have two towel racks.

Just a Wild Dream

Also, I'd like to have galvanized fencing installed from floor to ceiling just behind the front seat. This might just possibly keep small children in the back seat, and what is more to the point, it should discourage their efforts to drop all the change from their lunch money down the back of your neck while you're driving.

I'm dreaming wildly now, but wouldn't it be nice for families with more than two children to have a car without any windows at all in the back? Not only would this eliminate all arguments about whose turn it is to sit next to the window, it would keep the children who are old enough to read from constantly annoying you that you are now six mi., four mi., and one mi. away from a restaurant that features more than 20 different flavors of ice cream.

Rear View Clouded

Of course without back windows you wouldn't have a rear view, but do you anyway—with the ice skates, cowboy hats, and one pair of skis in the back?

By the way, do you know that it is possible to get a 25-inch bicycle into the back seat of an average car? What isn't possible is to get it out.

What also isn't possible is to find a parking place in front of the bicycle-repair shop, so that you have to double-park in the roaring traffic's boom while you try frantically to claw the bike free now that the handle-bars are entangled with the door handle.

I find the simplest and most efficient thing to do is just lay your head on the hood of the car and sob. Sooner or later you will attract a crowd and it won't be too difficult for three men, working as a team, to get that bike out of there.

Hanging From Roof

Of course, they will tear the upholstery, but then it's never been the same since the baby was car sick.

What would be a help is not heaven forbid, a larger back-seat area (then we'd be carting sailboats up to have them varnished) but two large hooks on the roof of the car from which you could hang the bicycle. Or a teeter-totter, to mention another item that I know positively will not fit inside a car.

Nobody else seems to have this next problem, so what I am going to suggest might not prove a popular feature. But, speaking for myself, I'd like the floor of the car lined with nails so nobody could stretch out down there. I find that I can drive through heavy traffic with one boy lying on the floor in his good clothes drinking a Coke.

What unhinges me completely and leads to so many insults from passing male drivers is when all four of them try to lie on the floor, shouting, "we've got our eyes shut, say when we're passing the post office! Are we near Fütterman's? Did we turn onto Beach?"

Someday one of them is going to open his eyes and ask, "And why did you drive into this deep water, Mommy?" And Mommy will tell them.

But these are all trifles, the icing on the cake. What I really want, and what would contribute most to the joyous sense of family togetherness on those Sunday trips to Playland, would be a little bathroom in the back seat.

Don't ask me how, I'm not an engineer. This is something that will have to be worked out at the factory.

Stolen Art Works Found by Phone Tip

VANCOUVER (CP) — An anonymous phone call Thursday night led to the recovery of $30,000 worth of paintings, missing from a private gallery since October.

The paintings, owned by Cresner Galleries of London, England, were stolen from the Fraser Galleries in suburban Shaughnessy last Oct. 14.

They were part of an exhibition of 19th century British and European works.

RCMP said a man phoned Vancouver police and said that if police wanted to recover the paintings they should have a look in the drive-in.

One painting was badly damaged and two others slightly damaged.

Among the paintings stolen were a $3,000 French interior by Marcel Brunery and a $1,200 seascape by G. Napier Hemy. They were part of a collection being taken on a Canadian tour by art dealer Herbert Cresner.

The four sittings will be capped by a banquet at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 25 which Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will attend.

The public will be admitted to the sessions which will include debates on world disarmament, German unification, segregation, rehabilitation of refugees, world health problems and peaceful uses of atomic energy.

UBC Man to Speak

DUNCAN — Dr. David McGinn, member of the UBC education faculty and consultant to the B.C. Association of Retarded Children, will speak to the Duncan and District Association for Retarded Children at a meeting Feb. 6 in St. John's Hall, starting at 8 p.m.

Police said they believed the paintings were returned dumped against a wall in a closed drive-in theatre because the thieves were unable to sell them.

DUNCAN — Mabel, a Holstein cow owned by Grant Loveseth, Somenos, topped Cowichan Dairy Herd Improvement Association production lists for December, according to a report by Ben Harrison, local inspector.

Mabel gave 15,794 pounds of milk and 606 pounds of butterfat in 305 days.

List of two-year-olds for the same period was headed by Doris, owned by Joseph Fall, Cobble Hill, who gave 13,726 pounds of milk and 450 pounds of butterfat.

New vehicle will have "velder" instead of traditional siren, will be heard for four blocks. (Robin Clarke Photo.)

$20,000 Damage To Island Parks

The January rains this year caused more than $20,000 damage to Vancouver Island parks, Recreation Minister Earle Westwood told the legislature Friday.

"This is insignificant by comparison with the flood problems facing the highways department in the same area," he said, "yet it is an important matter to us."

Mr. Westwood said one of the greatest challenges facing his department is that of providing water for many of its campsites.

"At this time there are 35 parks without adequate water facilities, but we hope during the next three years to correct this situation. Eleven will be undertaken this year."

WINTER OLYMPICS

Mr. Westwood spoke of the possibility of the 1968 Winter Olympic Games being held in Canada.

"Whether or not they come to Canada in 1968 or any other time, our interest in the development of Garibaldi Park will remain just as keen and intense as it has always been."

Mr. Westwood said the Canadian Olympic Games committee had advised representatives of each of the five B.C. possible sites where there is an Olympic Games potential. The treasury board of Canada has agreed to a grant of funds for the purpose of surveying the five areas.

Four Groups Named To Drama Festival

LAKE COWICHAN — Among four groups selected to participate in the B.C. Drama Festival March 8-11 in Vancouver will be Cowichan Lake Drama Club.

The local group will present "The Three Cuckolds," by Leon Katz. Other groups to take part will be Vancouver Little Theatre, Kamloops PTA Theatre Wing, and Prince George Players.

They were part of an exhibition of 19th century British and European works.

Public Speech Winner to Get Trip to Ottawa

(From Duncan Bureau) Winner of a public speaking contest between finalists from five Cowichan district high schools will win a trip to Ottawa in May and an "adventure in Citizenship" sponsored by the Duncan Rotary Club.

Representatives from Cowichan High Schools, Shawanigan Lake Boys' School and Queen Margaret's School for Girls will compete before the public and a panel of judges in the Cowichan High School cafeteria Feb. 20.

Judges will be three Victoria Rotarians, Dr. Beatty McLean of Victoria College, librarian John Lort, and retired Langford businessman James Nimmo.

The winner will receive an all-expense paid trip to Ottawa, and visit points of historical interest as well as the Parliament Buildings.

This is the second successive year the Duncan club has sponsored the unique adventure. Upon his or her return, the lucky student will be expected to relate highlights of the trip to local service clubs.

WESTWOOD PREDICTS

Logging Roads Access Likely

Five major logging companies with holdings on Vancouver Island have shown interest in reclassifying their logging roads to permit use by the general public, Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood said in the legislature Friday.

Under terms of the Industrial Transportation Act, the companies could be given authority for traffic control on their roads.

Mr. Westwood indicated the companies might be granted tax concessions on the roads as an incentive to open them for public use.

They are: MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., which has operations at Deerholme, west of Duncan, Chemainus River, Nanaimo River, Northwest Bay, Sproat Lake and Great Central Lake, and at Franklin and Sarita Rivers on the Alberni Canal.

B.C. Forest Products, at Grass, Crabapple and Shields Lakes in the Sooke area; at Nitinat Lake and Port Renfrew.

Crown Zellerbach Canada Limited, Nitinat Valley, Nanaimo Lakes and Comox Lake, Elk River Timber Co. and the Tahsis Co. Ltd., which have joint operation of a road between Campbell Lakes and Gold River on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Delinquent Tax Penalty Boosted By N. Cowichan

NORTH COWICHAN — Municipality of North Cowichan has increased the penalties and advanced dates for payment of delinquent taxes.

Under a new bylaw, a two per cent penalty will be placed on unpaid taxes July 1, another two per cent Aug. 1, and a final six per cent Oct. 1.

In previous years a penalty of one-half per cent was added at the first of each month, July through October, and eight per cent Nov. 1.

Move is designed to speed up tax payments and simplify bookkeeping.

'MANY FEAR GIBSON'

Double Standard Angers Perrault

VANCOUVER (CP) — Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said Friday parliamentary democracy in B.C. is imperilled by the Social Credit government's "double standard of parliamentary decorum."

He said there are many people who are "frightened to death of what Gordon Gibson is going to say." He defended the Liberal legislature member's right to speak out and condemned government suggestions he was violating privileges of the legislature.

The Liberal leader was speaking to 350 students at University of B.C. where Mr. Gibson last week made charges which led to allegations of slander and breach of privilege by Mines Minister Kiernan.

Mr. Perrault said Highways Minister Gagliardi had referred in the legislature last year to members of the opposition as "bugs" which would be exterminated at the polls. He said it was a "curious double standard" which condoned such language but objected to Mr. Gibson's.

7-Ton Russian Sputnik Biggest Ever Launched

Not Reported If Life Aboard

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW—The Soviet Union today put into an orbit a 7.13-ton satellite—the heaviest ever launched—as part of a Soviet plan for perfecting space ships of increased weight, Tass News Agency announced.

Tass said the new Sputnik was hurled into the skies "by means of an improved multi-stage rocket."

The weight of the new Sputnik was given as 6,483 kilograms (approximately 14,262 pounds). No mention was made of any animal, plant or other life sent aloft.

(German scientists at Bochum, Germany, said they picked up Russian words in Morse code from space Friday night, touching off some speculation the Russians might be trying to place a man in orbit.)

The Tass statement said the radio-controlling system installed in the fourth space ship Sputnik experiment functioned normally and that it was determined the Sputnik was on an orbit that carried it 203.1 miles from the earth at its highest point and 138.5 miles at its lowest. This was close to the orbit desired, Tass said.

They were brought back alive after 24 hours, Tass reported then.

Last Dec. 1 another Soviet satellite, a five-ton affair carrying two dogs, was launched. The dogs, Pchelka (Little Bee) and Mushka (Little Fly), perished when the space ship shot off course in the recovery attempt and burned up in outer space.

The previous Soviet experiments were described as pre-testing space vehicles for manned flight.

The most recent U.S. test for manned flight was the launching Jan. 31 of the 2,400-pound space capsule that carried Ham, a chimpanzee, 155 miles into space for a 420-mile flight at 5,000 miles an hour.

cue operations during the day. The bodies of a woman, her 12-year-old daughter and a seven-month-old baby have been recovered so far.

Police said 16 persons were still missing—12 occupants of a truck and a motorcyclist. They apparently were caught by the 300-foot slag heap as it charged down a hill slope to engulf streets and houses to a depth of 10 feet.

One eyewitness said: "It swept down that hillside as silent, as death. If you had kept your eyes shut, you would not have known anything was happening."

King Baudouin watched rescue operations during the day.

He said British parliamentary tradition shows that he has "little moral right" to his seat. However, Mr. Strachan was not going to make a personal opinion.

After discussions with the Speaker, he had decided a motion would have to be made to secure action.

Rebel Ship Returned To Owners Brazil 'Welched' Galvao Charges

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—The Brazilian government turned the liner Santa Maria back to Portugal today, Capt. Henrique Galvao's sea-going revolutionaries, now beached, protested that Brazil had welched on an agreement with the swash-buckling skipper.

A rebel spokesman told reporters:

"We are shocked and taken by surprise at the attitude of the Brazilian government, since it signed a document with us guaranteeing that the Santa Maria would stay under the Brazilian flag."

The spokesman was incensed that the ship is going back to "the dictator Salazar."

Portuguese Premier Antonio Salazar, Portugal's government however, is but an intermediary. It is turning the vessel back to the owners, the Colonial Navigation Company.

Galvao and 81 rebels were quartered in the police barracks.

UNSURE OF PLANS

The rebels were unsure of their future plans, although they have been promised political asylum in Brazil.

Galvao, shortly after setting foot on Brazilian soil, told a radio-TV audience that seizure of the 610-foot-long Santa Maria with 600 captive passengers and 368 crew was only the beginning of his campaign to oust the Salazar regime.

The ship's owners, meanwhile sought to bring Galvao into court. They directed the liner's regular captain, Maria Simoes Maia, to file a complaint in a Brazilian court charging Galvao with homicide, robbery, depriving passengers of their liberty and damage to the $16,600,000 ship.

The third officer of the Santa Maria was slain when the rebels seized the vessel in the Caribbean Jan. 22.

Meanwhile, Portuguese sources in Recife said today that Galvao wants to take his case to the World Court.

WOMAN HELD HOSTAGE BY ESCAPED CONVICT

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL, Que. (UPI)—An escaped convict held a woman hostage in her home today and threatened to kill anyone who came near the house.

Donald Pollack, 22, escaped from the outside grounds of the St. Vincent de Paul Federal Penitentiary after slugging a guard and stealing his .303-calibre rifle.

Jean Maurice LeBlanc was shot in the chest by the convict when he apparently did not understand a police order to stay clear and drove by the home. He was taken to a hospital in serious condition.

Pollack was traced to the home of Mrs. Roland Cyr, 45, wife of a prison clerk. When he saw police closing in he phoned the prison and said he would shoot the woman if not granted his freedom and also threatened to shoot anybody coming within sight of the house.

Ottawa Fights Downtown Fire

OTTAWA (CP)—A state of emergency was proclaimed today by Mayor Charlotte Whitton as all available city firemen sought to keep a blazing downtown fire from spreading from an old Ottawa Church to other buildings.

Eyewitnesses said the fire-fighters appeared to be succeeding in their efforts to keep the flames restricted to the Dominion United Church, a 76-year-old landmark.

The flames have also ripped through Robertson Galleries, destroying more than $20,000 worth of art.

The state of emergency apparently was aimed at giving fire-department chiefs authority to bring in all off-duty firemen and to take whatever steps are necessary to bring the flames under control.

Firemen prevented flames from spreading to the Centre Theatre, next door to the art gallery and church, but the movie house was reported damaged from smoke and water.

Church members and passersby dashed into the church shortly after the smoke was spotted. They managed to carry the communion table and old records out into the street.

Also jammed into the area between Sparks, Metcalfe and Queen Streets were the big Murphy-Gamble department store, the head office here of the Royal Bank of Canada, a drug store and a ladies' clothing store all with offices upstairs.

Leaflets Dropped

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI)—An anti-Castro plane flew low over downtown Havana Friday night and dropped leaflets calling for a Cuban students' strike "against the tyranny which oppresses us."

with at least four tommy-guns, the ANI dispatch said.

The report said the attackers were driven off swiftly but seven police were killed.

The dispatch did not say whether the attackers were whites or natives.

The dispatch said "complete calm" now reigns in the city.

The communique was issued following what it described as "reports from abroad" of disturbances in Angola after the seizure of the Portuguese liner Santa Maria. The account given in the communique was described as the "true version" of the Luanda incidents.

Temper flared in the most dramatic moment of the present session when Opposition Leader Robert Strachan and Attorney-General Robert Bonner exchanged vehement arguments in the legislature.

"Parliamentary ethics demand that the minister of highways should resign his seat upon being found guilty of an offence which seriously reflects on the operation of his department," said Mr. Strachan.

Rioters Kill Police In Portugal Colony

LISBON (UPI)—Seven Portuguese security police were killed when rioters attempted to attack prisoners in Angola colony Friday night, the Portuguese news agency ANI reported today.

The violence occurred in Luanda, capital of the big Portuguese colony on the southwest coast of Africa.

The buildings attacked were the military prison, the security police prison and the Luanda civil prison, the dispatch said.

The assault was carried out by three small groups armed with at least four tommy-guns, the ANI dispatch said.

Cars Stuck, Homes Cold As Blizzard Hits East

NEW YORK (AP)—A crippling blizzard generated by two big snowstorms that joined forces over the Atlantic coastline brought a mounting toll of deaths and misery today and slowed travel to a crawl.

The storm toll across the United States reached 55 this morning.

In some places, heating-oil supplies were running low, and deliveries were held up by heavy snows. Residents shivered in homes and apartments.

In Yonkers, a New York City suburb, 20 persons were found this morning in a White Plains-New York bus which stalled in the snow at 10 o'clock Friday night. Emergency crews could not reach it for hours.

VENDING INDUSTRY GROWTH ZOOMS

Times Business Editor

Judging from the market reaction, investors don't seem to have been much enthused over the A. V. Roe Canada Ltd. announcement that it is going into the vending machine business.

It is true that Avro is a little late in entering the field, nevertheless the phenomenal growth of this industry in U.S. will more than likely be followed by similar growth in Canada.

Some of the newer developments in vending machines are quite startling.

When most people think of vending machines they have in mind the relatively simple machines which sell candy, cigarettes and hot or cold drinks.

But the industry in the U.S. and to some extent in Canada, has gone much farther than that concept, and some very complex "canteen" machines were 27,000 of these machines on location. This rapid rate of increase is expected to continue for some years.

It may be difficult to visualize the growth of the vending machine industry to any extent in relatively non-industrial areas such as Victoria, but the market for them in heavily populated industrial areas is easy to see.

The products which Avro will manufacture in Canada are those of the Automatic Canteen Company of America, in Chicago, and there is no doubt as to this company's leadership in the industry.

Growers Wine Co. Ltd. has high hopes for a new hybrid grape, the "Himrod," which it has arranged to have cultivated by Okanagan growers.

Himrod was selected after tests of some 50 hybrid varieties now used by Growers.

Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. Ltd. has contracted for sale of 300,000 tons of coal to the Japanese steel industry.

In effect this is a year's extension to March 31, 1962, of the present contract which runs out at the end of this year.

Judging from the market reaction, investors don't seem to have been much enthused over the A. V. Roe Canada Ltd. announcement that it is going into the vending machine business.

It is true that Avro is a little late in entering the field, nevertheless the phenomenal growth of this industry in U.S. will more than likely be followed by similar growth in Canada.

Some of the newer developments in vending machines are quite startling.

When most people think of vending machines they have in mind the relatively simple machines which sell candy, cigarettes and hot or cold drinks.

But the industry in the U.S. and to some extent in Canada, has gone much farther than that concept, and some very complex "canteen" machines were 27,000 of these machines on location. This rapid rate of increase is expected to continue for some years.

It may be difficult to visualize the growth of the vending machine industry to any extent in relatively non-industrial areas such as Victoria, but the market for them in heavily populated industrial areas is easy to see.

The products which Avro will manufacture in Canada are those of the Automatic Canteen Company of America, in Chicago, and there is no doubt as to this company's leadership in the industry.

Growers Wine Co. Ltd. has high hopes for a new hybrid grape, the "Himrod," which it has arranged to have cultivated by Okanagan growers.

Himrod was selected after tests of some 50 hybrid varieties now used by Growers.

Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. Ltd. has contracted for sale of 300,000 tons of coal to the Japanese steel industry.

In effect this is a year's extension to March 31, 1962, of the present contract which runs out at the end of this year.

PRESENT BUILDING 'BURSTING AT SEAMS'

Indian Arts Leader Asks New B.C. Museum

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Dr. A. N. Beattie, president of the Indian Arts and Welfare Society, today called for the immediate construction of a new provincial museum.

The appeal is sparked by the purchase last week of one of the most valuable collections of Pacific Northwest arts and crafts.

The treasure bought by the government from a Victoria estate is valued by some experts at more than $300,000.

The new collection, together with thousands of relics and specimens acquired by the museum over a period of years, is expected to aggravate the problem of care and storage.

Hidden in Attics

The museum is bursting at the seams and works of arts and scientific specimens that could be displayed for benefit of all British Columbians are hidden away in dusty attics and unused rooms of the Legislative Buildings.

Mr. Beattie said the society feels there is a need now more than ever for a new museum to safeguard B.C. historical treasures from damage and fire.

He is supported by Prof. C. S. Burchill, history and economics professor at Royal Roads and an executive member of the society.

World's Best

He added the new collections provides the museum with the world's finest collections of Indian arts and crafts of the Pacific Northwest.

(Mrs. Lois Haggen, CCF—Grand Forks-Greenwood, said in the Legislature Friday that Victoria should celebrate its centennial in 1962 with a proper showplace for the provincial archives and museum.)

Collection was acquired from the estate of the late W. A. Newcombe, who with his father Dr. C. F. Newcombe, spent years collecting throughout the province, Washington and Oregon.

Sought by Others

It is considered the finest collection of its kind and museums and art galleries in Canada, the United States and Europe sought it.

The collection includes about 45 delicately carved Kwakiutl and Haida silver bracelets, a rare Salish blanket (which is no longer made by the tribe), beautifully carved wooden chests and native baskets representing all B.C. tribes.

A native collection of argillite carvings includes a chest which experts estimate at a value of $30,000.

There are also some Indian "bone soul catchers" inlaid with abalone shells. These are extremely rare and are now regarded as works of art.

Centuries Old

It includes thousands of books, periodicals, paintings

by Emily Carr, historical photographs, old maps and scientific papers and documents on natural sciences.

A valuable item is a Spanish atlas of the voyage of the Sutil and Mexicana in the late 18th century. Some of the archaeological relics are at least 2,000 years old.

Dr. Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, said the collection includes the original plates and prints of R. Maynard, a photographer who took pictures in British Columbia in the late Nineties.

Baffled Police Renew Appeals To Hit-Runner

Chief Expresses 'Pity, Sympathy'

City police, still without a lead in the hit-run death of a retired Victoria man Wednesday, today renewed their appeal asking the driver to give himself up.

Chief John Blackstock reiterated a direct challenge made previously to the driver of the auto in collision with 82-year-old Hubert H. Hollier, 2336

MLAs HASTEN TO CLEAR WAY FOR BUDGET

Premier Bennett will present B.C.'s 1961-62 budget Friday afternoon in the legislature.

Next week three night sittings are planned for Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, to speed up completion of the throne speech debate.

Speakers Monday will be: Works Minister W. N. Chant (SC—Victoria), Dave Barrett (CCF—Dewdney), Alex Matthews (SC—Vancouver Centre), Frank Calder (CCF—Atlin), W. F. Jelfcoat (SC—Salmon Arm), Rae Edle (CCF—New Westminster).

More Hunting As Big Game On Increase

Lengthening of the big game hunting season in B.C. in the near future was indicated in the legislature Friday by Recreation Minister Earle Westwood.

At the present time, he said, there are more moose, deer and caribou than ever before, "and it is going to be necessary to lengthen hunting seasons for some species in order to have a satisfactory harvest and ensure a proper survival."

The harvest of waterfowl was down slightly during the year but native grouse were scarce due to what appeared to be an early cyclic decline.

Mr. Westwood said B.C.'s hatchery program is moving ahead. The long-awaited Bull River hatchery, in the Rocky Mountain Trench south of Cranbrook, near Wardner, would be developed this year "unless nature conspires against us as it did in 1960."

Even without the hatchery, he said the fish and game branch is producing more fish at less cost than ever before.

TRAFFIC FINES

In Oak Bay police court on Friday: Sonia Rose, 3165 Weald; Donald Strath, 3983 Locarno; and Siegfried Marguardt, 3921 Smugglers Cove, $25 each; Norbert Galvez, 2650 Arbutus, $20; Geoffrey Unwin Potter, 1845 Taylor, $15, for speeding over 30.

Evelyn Carr, 2925 Lansdowne, $15 for passing another vehicle stopped at a pedestrian crosswalk.

Members of the Baha'i Faith from throughout Vancouver Island and from mainland points meet this weekend in Nanaimo's Malaspina Hotel for a conference sponsored by the Baha'i regional teaching committee.

About 30 adherents are expected to attend. There are about 25 members of the faith on the Island, 15 in Victoria.

Merchants and businessmen are alerted by police to watch for people who try to cash any Bank of Montreal cheques in the name Employees' Liability Insurance Co.

Sixty-four blank cheques were stolen this week from a Vancouver office and so far five have been turned over to city police and one to Saanich police.

It is believed the person responsible for cashing them may still be in this area or else, where on Vancouver Island.

Bowie Race Track Closed by Snow

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—Bowie race course, battered by snowstorms since the opening of its scheduled 48-day meeting last month, today postponed further racing at the southern Maryland track until next Wednesday.

MONTREAL (CP)—Doug Harvey, all-star Montreal defenceman who has played in only two games since Christmas, is out again. Canadian officials said ankle trouble is the cause.

$460 Ransom Asked for Kidnapped Boy

INGOLDSTADT (Reuters)—Parents of a seven-year-old boy kidnapped near this West German town received word today he would be killed unless a ransom of 2,000 marks (about $460) was paid, police said.

Hans Knaupp was snatched in a village street by a man described by police as no older than 20.

U.S. Orders Five More Polaris Subs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Navy disclosed today it has signed contracts for the construction of five more Polaris submarines—in line with President Kennedy's order to step up this phase of the ballistic missile program.

The five new submarines will add to the 14 which have been built or are under construction.

Ottawa Fights Downtown Fire

OTTAWA (CP)—A state of emergency was proclaimed today by Mayor Charlotte Whitton as all available city firemen sought to keep a blazing downtown fire from spreading from an old Ottawa Church to other buildings.

Eyewitnesses said the fire-fighters appeared to be succeeding in their efforts to keep the flames restricted to the Dominion United Church, a 76-year-old landmark.

The flames have also ripped through Robertson Galleries, destroying more than $20,000 worth of paintings and objects of art.

The state of emergency apparently was aimed at giving fire department chiefs authority to bring in all off-duty firemen and to take whatever steps are necessary to bring the flames under control.

Firemen prevented flames from spreading to the Centre

Theatre, next door to the art gallery and church, but the movie house was reported damaged from smoke and water.

Church members and passersby dashed into the church shortly after the smoke was spotted. They managed to carry the communion table and old records out into the street.

Also jammed into the area between Sparks, Metcalfe and Queen Streets were the big Murphy-Gamble department store, the head office here of the Royal Bank of Canada, a drug store and a ladies' clothing store all with offices upstairs.

19 Belgians Die In Slag Slide

MOULIN-SOUS-FLERON (Reuters)—Rescue workers late today abandoned hope of digging up further survivors from an avalanche of slag from a coal-using power plant that claimed at least 19 lives.

The mayor of this tiny Belgian hamlet where the tragedy struck Friday night said hope had been given up.

"It is inconceivable that a human being could survive this deluge," he said. "The rubble must be cleared away before it will be possible to draw up a complete toll of the dead."

King Baudouin watched rescue operations during the day.

The bodies of a woman, her 12-year-old daughter and a seven-month-old baby have been recovered so far.

Police said 16 persons were still missing—12 occupants of houses, three passengers in a truck and a motorcyclist.

They apparently were caught by the 300-foot slag heap as it charged down a hill slope to engulf streets and houses to a depth of 10 feet.

One eyewitness said: "It swept down that hillside as silent as death. If you had kept your eyes shut, you would not have known anything was happening."

Rebel Ship Returned To Owners

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—The Brazilian government turned the liner Santa Maria back to Portugal today. Capt. Henrique Galvao's sea-going revolutionaries, now beached, protested that Brazil had welched on an agreement with the swash-buckling skipper.

A rebel spokesman told reporters:

"We are shocked and taken by surprise at the attitude of the Brazilian government, since it signed a document with us guaranteeing that the Santa Maria would stay under the Brazilian flag."

The spokesman was incensed that the ship is going back to "the dictator Salazar." Portuguese Premier Antonio Salazar, Portugal's government however, is but an intermediary. It is turning the vessel back to the owners, the Colonial Navigation Company.

Galvao and 21 rebels were quartered in the police barracks.

UNSURE OF PLANS
The rebels were unsure of their future plans, although they have been promised political asylum in Brazil.

Galvao, shortly after setting foot on Brazilian soil, told a radio-TV audience that seizure of the 610-foot-long Santa Maria with 600 captive passengers and 368 crew was only the beginning of his campaign to oust the Salazar regime.

The ship's owners, meanwhile sought to bring Galvao into court. They directed the liner's regular captain, Maria Simoes Maia, to file a complaint in a Brazilian court charging Galvao with homicide, robbery, depriving passengers of their liberty and damage to the $16,600,000 ship.

The third officer of the Santa Maria was slain when the rebels seized the vessel in the Caribbean Jan. 22.

Meanwhile, Portuguese sources in Recife said today that Galvao wants to take his case to the World Court.

Congolese Quit Battle Against UN

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Congolese troops appealed for and were granted a cease-fire after suffering "heavy casualties" in a day-long gun battle with Nigerian troops of the United Nations at Kindu, a UN spokesman reported today.

One Nigerian officer was killed and four of his men are missing in the clash. It grew out of a brawl Thursday night with drunken Congolese soldiers in which six Congolese were killed, the UN spokesman said.

While the battle was raging a United Nations DC-3 flown by two Norwegians tried to land at Kindu airport, but was forced away by machine-gun fire from the ground.

Bullets whizzed through the empty passenger cabin and through the flight cabin but neither of the flyers was injured.

Gen. Victor Lundula, commander of the Lumumbist military forces, ordered the Congolese troops to call off the fight and sent an officer to help enforce the order.

TIMES SQUARE DESERTED

Cars Stuck, Homes Cold As Blizzard Hits East

NEW YORK (AP)—A crippling blizzard generated by two big snowstorms that joined forces over the Atlantic coastline brought a mounting toll of deaths and misery today and slowed travel to a crawl.

The storm toll across the United States reached 55 this morning.

In some places, heating-oil supplies were running low, and deliveries were held up by heavy snows. Residents shivered in homes and apartments.

In Yonkers, a New York City suburb, 20 persons were found this morning in a White Plains-New York bus which stalled in the snow at 10 o'clock Friday night. Emergency crews could not reach it for hours.

As snow depth in New York City reached 15 inches during the morning, the temperature rose to 32 degrees. It was the first time in 16 days that the mercury had climbed that high. The previous record of 15 sub-freezing days was set in 1880.

New York Mayor Robert Wagner issued an emergency order banning all unnecessary and non-emergency traffic from the streets. Thousands of workers and hundreds of plows tried to keep single lanes of traffic open past stalled, abandoned cars.

A state of emergency was declared in Nassau County, on Long Island, where public

Quebec Escapee Guns Down Man

MONTREAL (CP)—Provincial police today feared convict Donald Pollock, holding the wife of a penitentiary guard hostage in her home near the prison, may become panicky at reports that a salesman he shot is in critical condition.

Police urged radio stations to stop using the report. They believe that the 22-year-old convict, whom they described as already excited and hopped up by goof-balls, might try to shoot his way out or might harm his hostage, Mrs. Roland Cyr.

Police were trying to get relatives of Pollock to the scene to reason with him.

Meanwhile, salesman Maurice Leblanc, about 45, was fighting for his life in a hospital operating room.

DEMANDED CAR

Leblanc was driving past the Cyr house when Pollock stopped him and demanded use of the car. The salesman apparently refused and was shot.

Pollock was at a hockey game outside the prison walls and asked a guard's permission to go into the residence to get warm. But as he passed a second guard, he grabbed a rifle and made his escape.

Police said they think the rifle Pollock took probably contained no more than five bullets and three were believed used when he fired on Leblanc.

"If we can get him to fire those other two bullets we can just walk in and pull him out," a policeman said.

"If it wasn't for the woman we could go in with tear gas."

HOLDS FIRE

Pollock held his fire when an ambulance picked up Leblanc. He also held it when two detectives took Leblanc's car from the scene.

Mrs. Cyr's husband and 11-year-old daughter were at home when Pollock burst in and said: "It's a holdup."

The Cyr girl, wearing pyjamas and barefoot, walked out the back door. Mr. Cyr, the penitentiary paymaster, left a few minutes later, saying he was going to get a gun. Pollock offered no opposition.

Mrs. Cyr still was being held five hours later when her husband told reporters of the experience.

A detective meanwhile had walked to the front door of the house and placed a carton of cigarettes at the door. He met no resistance.

26 Lost on Airliner

BIGGEST EVER

7-Ton Sputnik
Fired by Reds

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW—The Soviet Union today put into an orbit a 7.13-ton satellite—the heaviest ever launched—as part of a Soviet plan for perfecting space ships of increased weight, Tass News Agency announced.

Tass said the new Sputnik was hurled into the skies "by chum, Germany, said they means of an improved multi-picked up Russian words in stage rocket."

Morse code from space Friday. The weight of the new Sputnik, touching off some speculation, was given as 5,483 kilograms (12,180 pounds) by the Russian press.

Two "ham" radio operators in No. mention was made of Italy, said they heard what any animal, plant or other life sounded like "moans" from space, but scientists said

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Members of the House are already complaining of seasonal fatigue. We have had two night sittings this week and three are promised for next week.

"I'm really browned off," said an MLA from the B.C. Interior. "When we have committees in the morning there is no chance for any rest at all. It is one long grind from 9 a.m. right through the afternoon and evening until whenever the government chooses to call a halt."

"I think they're just trying to wear us out before the big issues are debated. There's always less opposition when the Opposition is tired."

Next week's night sittings—on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday—will wind up the throne speech debate and pave the way for the 1961-62 budget to be presented by Premier Bennett on Friday afternoon.

We now have three women members in the legislature—Mrs. Buda Brown (SC—Vancouver-Point Grey), Mrs. Lois Haggen (CCF—Grand Forks), and Mrs. Camille Mather (CCF—Vancouver).

"Still not enough," said Mrs. Alice Barnard, a visitor to the public galleries. "In England women are an essential part of political life. In Canada, I am afraid, they are hardly emancipated and British Columbia has a kind of Colonial Bump attitude towards women."

"I would say at least one-third of the legislature should be made up of women. They have first-hand experience of human problems—raising children, household expenses, cost of food and clothing, and all the things that concern the taxpayer."

Mrs. Haggen confessed to a strong sisterly feeling for Mrs. Buda Brown, although their political philosophies are somewhat different.

"We have sat here for five years," she said, "and sometimes we have held little caucuses in self-defence. Now we have another woman member we feel safe."

Mrs. Haggen congratulated Mrs. Brown on her appointment as minister without portfolio and said she would do honor to the women of British Columbia.

Mrs. Haggen is proud that her husband, Rupert Haggen, once represented her constituency in the legislature. He was first elected in 1939 but did not seek re-election in the 1956 election because of ill health.

He suffered a stroke and has been confined to a wheelchair ever since.

In her quiet, earnest way Mrs. Haggen is a severe government critic, yet never seems to be talking politics. Verbally she roams all over the province and seems just as anxious for Victoria to have a new museum as for Barkerville to have a good centenary in 1962.

She warned the government against the folly of taking girls out of the 4-H (young farmers) clubs.

"If we are going to keep the boys on the farm we must keep the girls there, too," reasoned Mrs. Haggen.

She must have been thinking of that old song which goes:

How yer gonna keep 'em down on the farm
After they've seen Paree

"I feel like a mosquito in a nudist colony," confided Alex Macdonald (CCF—Vancouver East) in his maiden speech. "I just don't know where to begin."

He made a pretty good beginning by attacking almost everything the B.C. government has done since it came to office in 1952.

"There wasn't any red meat in the throne speech," he said. "It was the tired speech of a government conscious of entering its last term of office."

Premier Bennett tilted back in his chair and laughed. He seemed to think Mr. Macdonald was being absurd.

"The government is not afraid of me—and I may say the feeling is mutual," said John Tisdalle, the dark prophetic-looking member for Saanich.

Mr. Tisdalle has long been regarded as a potential rebel in the government ranks and has on occasion disagreed with it to the point of embarrassment.

"The farming experiences of my early youth seem to have given me a feeling of no fear, so long as I know I am right," he told the House.

Surrey Hardest Hit By Social Problems

Surrey's welfare problem is staggering—it is reputed to be the blackest area in British Columbia, James H. Rhodes, the second CCF member for Delta, told the legislature this week.

Mr. Rhodes said the social welfare report showed that in 1960 Surrey sent the second highest number of boys to the Provincial Industrial School for first offenders.

He added that 15 per cent of the population of Surrey was on welfare at the end of November last—4,138 out of a population of 65,000.

"A greater percentage than during the hungry '30s," said Mr. Rhodes.

EARLY PROBE ASKED
Mr. Rhodes appealed to the government's welfare department to investigate social welfare in Surrey as early as possible.

He said the riding of Delta, with two members in the legislature, is being "short-changed." Victoria, though two and a half times smaller than Delta, had three members.

"Delta can no longer be called a rural riding and therefore must be considered in the same category as Victoria or Vancouver," Mr. Rhodes said.

He claimed that, whereas the B.C. government spent only $671 on advertising B.C. farm produce in 1955, it spent $106,528 in 1956—an election year.

Expenditure dropped to $8,459 in 1958 but the estimate rose to $150,000 in 1960—also an election year.

Mr. Rhodes called for a better appreciation of the farmer as an important part of the social scheme.

"With the world's population increasing at the rate of 150,000 a day, agriculture must sooner or later be recognized as a most important industry," he said.

Ben-Gurion Wins Round

TEL AVIV (Reuters)—Leaders of the Mapai labor party, today ousted Pinhas Lavon from a powerful union post in a round-two victory for the resigned Premier, David Ben-Gurion.

The party central committee decided by a solid majority vote to remove Lavon, centre of a political controversy involving Ben-Gurion, from office as secretary-general of the Histadrut trade union federation.

The vote—159 to 96 with five abstentions—was announced after club-wielding police broke up a crowd of demonstrators outside the committee's meeting place here.

Observers said the vote cleared the way to an early solution of the government crisis following Ben-Gurion's resignation Tuesday.

SUCCESSOR The late Rear Admiral Brian Spencer as chief of naval technical services at Ottawa is John B. Caldwell, whose promotion from Commodore to Rear Admiral has been announced. Admiral Caldwell, who joined the navy as a cadet in 1933, was commander-in-chief of the Pacific Coast at HMCS Dockyard from 1953 to 1958.

RCN FRIGATES AT N. ZEALAND PORT SUNDAY

Three frigates of the RCN Pacific Command will arrive at Waitangi Bay of Islands, New Zealand, Sunday in the course of a three-and-one-half-month training cruise for officer cadets from HMCS Venture.

While at Waitangi, HMCS Ships Sussexville, Beacon Hill and New Glasgow will take part in ceremonies marking the 121st anniversary of the signing of the treaty of Waitangi, which laid the foundation for New Zealand's place in the Commonwealth.

SPUTNIK

noises could have been "anything."

The Tass statement said the radio controlling system installed in the fourth space ship Sputnik experiment functioned normally and that it was determined the Sputnik was on an orbit that carried it 203.1 miles from the earth at its highest point and 138.5 miles at its lowest. This was close to the orbit desired, Tass said.

TRACKED BY MONITOR

The orbit inclination was given as 64 degrees 57 minutes.

In Colorado Springs, Colo., a spokesman for the North American Air Defence Command said its monitoring stations had traced the new Sputnik through six orbits of the earth. The spokesman said the big satellite was sweeping around the globe every 89.64 minutes and was broadcasting signals of some sort.

The announcement used the term "Sputnik" to describe the object, not "spaceship" as it did in prescribing two previous launches. Sputnik is Russian for satellite.

The Russians launched what they called their first space ship last May 15, a test for launching the space ship last Aug. 19 that had the space dogs, Belka (Squirrel) and Strelka (Little Arrow) aboard. They were brought back alive after 24 hours, Tass reported then.

Last Dec. 1 another Soviet satellite, a five-ton affair carrying two dogs, Pchelka (Little Bee) and Mushka (Little Fly), perished when the space ship shot off course in the recovery attempt and burned up in outer space.

The previous Soviet experiments were described as pre-testing space vehicles for manned flight.

The most recent U.S. test for manned flight was the launch of Jan. 31 of the 2,400-pound space capsule that carried Ham, a chimpanzee, 155 miles into space for a 420-mile flight at 5,000 miles an hour.

Ham was retrieved safely and his physical condition afterward was declared excellent.

The heaviest U.S. vehicle ever orbited was the 4½-ton "talking" Atlas-Score sent up Dec. 18, 1958. It broadcast President Eisenhower's Christmas message and relayed radio messages from ground stations.

Last May 24 the 2½-ton Midas II, sent up to test a system for detecting missile launches, was orbited. Its radio failed after two days.

The U.S. is developing bigger booster rockets, including the Saturn, which is designed to carry as much as 15 tons in a low orbit, but will not be ready until late 1964 or 1965.

A British space expert in London tonight acclaimed the latest Sputnik as "a major stride forward" and said the launching removed any lingering doubts about man's ability to get into space.

Leonard J. Carter, secretary of the British Interplanetary Society, said the seven-ton Sputnik "is big enough to carry not one but two men on an earth orbit for a period of five or six days."

WEATHER

works commissioner Charles Smith said at least 1,500 cars had been abandoned.

From the Carolinas to Maine deep snows from earlier storms mounted.

New York's big Idlewild and La Guardia Airports were closed. Trains continued to run, but sometimes hours late.

Snowplows fought a losing battle against the heavy fall and drifts on city streets and suburban roads.

In Connecticut, the New Haven Railroad closed its New Canaan-Stamford line.

Upstate New York, where temperatures have gone below zero for 16 days, generally was having a rough time. Syracuse had 15 inches of new snow. Newburgh and Olean reported 17 inches. Many stores shut up shop in Syracuse and elsewhere.

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI)—An anti-Castro plane flew low over downtown Havana Friday night and dropped leaflets calling for a Cuban students' strike "against the tyranny which oppresses us."
